

Little More Than Hope

NEW YORK (AP) — It has been about eight months, as nearly as Mr. and Mrs. Chester Konarsky can remember, that they have been living in their car parked beside a sludgy river in a backwater section of the Bronx.

They huddled under blankets in the dead of winter. He salvaged copper wire from abandoned cars to sell for income and dug steamer clams in Long Island Sound to eat and somehow they survived, living on hopes of better times.

"We never asked for anything until last month," said Mrs. Konarsky, 55, when their plight was discovered Thursday. "It just seemed like we could make it without it."

"Maybe you don't know what it's like, but you keep hoping something will turn up," explained Konarsky, 59, who worked in City Island boatyards from his youth until last fall, when an arthritic arm forced him to quit.

They have been without a home since August 1969, when their landlord wanted to raise the rent. They moved from an apartment onto a friend's boat at City Island.

Sold Boat

"It was comical, really," Konarsky says. "I had a lot of time so I fixed up the boat. Then somebody saw it and bought it, so we were out of a place to stay. That was the first time we went to the car."

Mrs. Konarsky has been ill for some years and cannot walk, and it was difficult to find an apartment they could afford that did not have steps.

Both were brought up to believe that it was a disgrace to be on relief. "I kept thinking: well, I just banged my arm, it will heal up," he says. "I was just monkeying around, thinking we could get away without it."

Last summer another friend offered them a room in back of a vacant store. Later the store was rented and they went back to the car. That was about September or October—they remember the weather was still warm.

Joblessness Up; Prices Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total employment rose 500,000 in May to 78.7 million, but because the unemployment rate generally rises more in May, the rate for a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent the bureau figured it as a rise of 0.1 per cent on a seasonal basis. The jobless rate for women 20 and over rose from 5.5 to 5.8 per cent, the bureau said.

The jobless rate for men 20 and over continued its sharp climb of recent months, rising from 10.3 per cent in April to 11.5 per cent in May, the highest in more than a decade, the bureau said.

The national jobless rate was up from 6.1 per cent in April, said the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The actual number of jobless Americans dropped 300,000 to a total of 4.4 million, but because it usually declines more than that in May the bureau figured it as a rise of 130,000 on a seasonal basis.

The bureau also reported that average earnings of some 45 million rank and file workers—more than half the nation's work force—rose two cents an hour to $3.40 and increased $1.41 per week to $125.46.

The average weekly paycheck was up $7.06 for a six per cent gain over the past year. A 4.3 per cent rise in living costs over the same period reduced purchasing power $5.39 per week, leaving the average worker with a net gain of $1.67.

The report said the nation's totalled 1.9 million.

The rate for women remained unchanged at 6 per cent at a total of 1.5 million. The rate for a teen-agers edged up from 17.2 to 17.3 per cent at a total of 981,000, the bureau said.

The number of persons working part time because they cannot find full time jobs totalled 2.5 million, about the same as in April and matching last December's eight-year high, it said.

The nation's total civilian labor force rose 200,000 to 83 million, highest in history and nearly 300,000 above the previous high reached last January.

Nearly half the May increase in the work force were adult men. The total number of workers in the key category of nonfarm payrolls rose 420,000 to 70.8 million, showing the first gain since January but was still more than 400,000 below the record high of March 1970, the report said.

The average work week for all nonfarm payroll employees remained unchanged at 37 hours for the third straight month, the report said.

"The average work week has remained on a virtual plateau since the fall of 1970," it said.

The average work week in manufacturing moved up slightly to 39.9 hours, recovering a loss in the previous month. It was still a full hour below the high of March 1969, the bureau said.

Metals, Fuel Lead In Upturn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for steel and other metals and a sharp jump for gasoline were major factors in pushing over-all wholesale prices up four-tenths of one per cent last month, the government said today.

Continued strength in metal and metal products prices and a sharp upturn in the fuels indexes caused about 70 per cent of the total rise for industrials," said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The May increase pushed the government's Wholesale Price Index up to 113.8. This means wholesale goods worth $100 on the average in the 1967 base period cost $113.80 last month.

The index was up 3.4 per cent over the past year but the annual rate of 4.3 per cent the past six months was the highest for any six-month period since March of 1970; the bureau said this was still below the peak rate of 5.2 per cent for the six months ending in June 1969.

The increases for metals, fuels and other goods pushed the over-all industrial commodities index up four-tenths of one per cent.

Farm products rose nine-tenths of one per cent, but the bureau figured a 1.1 per cent decline on a seasonal basis because fruits and vegetables did not show the approximately 10 per cent rise of a year earlier.

The over-all wholesale price hike of four-tenths of one per cent was the highest in three months, but on a seasonal basis the bureau said it was three-tenths compared with April's five-tenths increase.

Price increases for a number of steel bar and pipe items and for several semi-finished steel items were reflected in the May index, the report said.

"Foundry and forge shop products and a number of fabricated metal products, also were up in price," it added.

Sharply higher gasoline prices were the major factor in the fuels rise; natural gas and electric power advanced, but coal prices declined somewhat, it said.

There were also increases for machinery and equipment, textiles—except for a drop in wool and jute. Other price hikes were posted for paper products, furniture, motor vehicle parts, lumber and wood products, mineral building materials and leather.

Returned POWs Unclaimed

Enemy POWs Unclaimed

UPSHUR (AP) — The U.S. troopship Uphur with 13 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners of war aboard return to Da Nang today after Hanoi announced its agreement to accept the prisoners was off.

The prisoners appeared downcast as they were removed from the Uphur and taken to a prison camp near Da Nang. They had been flown from the Bien Hoa prison camp near Saigon. Officials said they would not return there but would remain at Da Nang.

The Uphur and her escort of 10 gunboats had circled off the coast all morning awaiting instructions. The Uphur never entered the cease-fire area off the demilitarized zone where the trapster was to have taken place.

"We believe we have complied with the Geneva convention and the conditions of the agreement," said a spokesman for the U.S. military. "We deeply regret the other side did not accept this humanitarian offer."

In balking at the last minute, the North Vietnamese accused the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments of blocking the release of most of the 570 disabled POWs Saigon had offered on April 29 to free. A statement distributed in Paris Thursday said the arrangements Hanoi agreed to "are no longer valid."

Each chairman made a statement concerning the merger discussion.

Anderson said that he felt the

Turn to Page 2, Col. 6

This week, five weeks after the original offer, the Saigon government announced that only 13 of the prisoners were willing to go home. Repatriation was offered to another 90 disabled prisoners, but they, too, refused.

The South Vietnamese government dealt with representatives of the International Red Cross. Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam claimed those who refused feared reprisals in the North. The North Vietnamese said the whole thing was a "dishonorable and an odious act." They demanded the release of all "patriots being held illegally in South Vietnam" and that they be allowed to stay in South Vietnam or go North, whichever they preferred.

U.S. officials in Washington and Saigon had hoped that North Vietnam's earlier willingness to accept the prisoners and even specify terms for their delivery might lead to a POW exchange that would free Americans held in North Vietnam.

Some 339 Americans, almost all of them fliers shot down in bombing raids over the North, are known to be prisoners in North Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry charged the Hanoi regime showed "bad faith in going back on its word and in refusing to accept the disabled soldiers it had sent in an aggressive war against the Republic of Vietnam."

Get It Together With Get Away Gear

BY SANDRA SHACKEL-FORD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Get away gear is here
Whether you are going on a weekend jaunt to northern Wisconsin or embarking on a European sojourn planning a wardrobe is as important as planning your itinerary.

If you are not the duffle bag hiking type, you are going to need more than dungarees and boots.

Easy care coordinates are the answer.

A laundry or cleaning establishment has become a way of life for many. Just drop in. Drop it off. Pick it up. Put it on. That's fine when you're not on the move but in some areas, America's answer to clean clothes is a bathtub or sink.

In Europe this is especially true. Water is often metered out with a sparing hand, and in countries where temperatures soar, temperaments often do likewise.

But today's wrinkle resistant fabrics lend themselves to people on the move, to people who would rather spend a minimal amount of time on clothing care and a maximum amount on living, seeing, doing.

So do it!

You can travel light and be both well-dressed and well-pressed. Determine what you are going to do when you get where you are going. Pack for it. That over-loaded suitcase can prove a burden instead of a blessing especially when you are doing the toting.

Coordinate your wardrobe around two colors and build from there. By doing so you can eliminate an over-abundance of shoes and matching bags that do nothing more than add pounds and problems.

The new synthetic knits are blessed events for the traveler. They pack well — either flat, or rolled neatly and placed along the sides of your suitcase to save space.

Don't forget those often times overlooked nooks and crannies that are excellent and often neglected space savers. A shoe can become more than a crumple-toed burden when filled with rolled washcloth or face towel. Lightweight lingerie has much of the same saving qualities besides looking cool and comfortable. Styles are so versatile that they, too, can double up as beach cover-ups and attractive lounge wear.

Being travel-wise is being practical. If carrying an over-loaded suitcase or suitcases will dampen your vacation, why go through the hassle. So be practical. Relax. Have fun.

Check List for A Get-away Wardrobe

- 1 travel suit

Miscellaneous: Zippered, rubberized or plastic cosmetic bag, scissors, bobby pins, toothbrush and toothpaste, needle and thread, extra reading glasses, safety pins, shampoo, hair brush, hair spray, shower cap.

Getting Away From It All comes once a year to some vacation goers. And what a way to go when you've got double-ups that both lounge and step out. Now there's sleepwear That's fashion too. Pictured above the newest in hot things features an elasticized midriff, in light and airy Crepeset nylon. Pop it over a swimsuit for a stroll to that secluded spot on the beach. It's drip dry, a prime commodity for going places unruffled. From Kayser-Permalift.

This Passport to fashion is basic. Put together of stripe overblouse and permanently pleated skirt, both of Encron polyester. Mr. Fine came up with a combination that keeps its cool.

On the Beach! The weightless two-piece bikini and matching smocked cover-up will take you from hotel, to beach, to poolside restaurant. Beach Mates designs it in quick drying Enkalure nylon. The duo at right will rate vacation encores. They're mix and match ideas in black and white, styled by Encore to stretch your wardrobe. The washability of non-wrinkling Encron polyester makes the going easier and great.

Promises Repeated

Wedel-Sonnleitner

COLUMBUS — Sharon Ann Wedel and William C. Sonnleitner were married recently at St. Jerome Catholic Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wedel. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John A. Sonnleitner, 335 Oak St., Menasha, and the late Mr. Sonnleitner.

Honor attendants were Miss Mary Opprecht and Donald Van Cauwenberghe. Bridesmaids were Miss Sue Hirsch, Miss Jane Shive and Miss JoAnn Sonnleitner with Miss Patti Wedel as junior attendant.

Groomsmen were Jack Sonnleitner and Francis and James Wedel. Guests were seated by Thomas Sonnleitner and Robert Wedel.

Pockat-Lueck

NEENAH — Martin Luther Evangelical Lutheran Church was the setting for the recent wedding of Darhl Jean Pockat, and Earl Lueck.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Pockat, 903 Sherry St., and Mrs. William F. Lueck, Watertown.

Mrs. William Fehrman was matron of honor with Mrs. John Burdick and Miss Cheryl Nollenberg as bridesmaids.

William Fehrman was best man. Robert Burdick and Steven Stuelke were groomsmen. Ushers were Carlton Begrow and Louis Lueck.

The couple greeted guests at the Labor Temple, before leaving on a wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains. They reside in Watertown.

In Year 1971, Lock Your Doors

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I live in Los Angeles in a high-class apartment building with a well-guarded entrance and electronic devices to catch people who don't belong there. I mention this so you will know why I do not feel it is necessary to lock and bolt the front door. You see, I was raised in Norfolk, Neb., and nobody ever locked their doors in Norfolk. I married in 1936 and we lived for many years in Grand Rapids, Mich. Nobody locked their doors there, either.

And 1971 isn't 1936. So get with it, Lady, before you meet somebody in your kitchen who did not come to borrow a cup of sugar.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today is a sad one for me — maybe the saddest in my life. My son was placed under arrest for "contributing to the delinquency of a minor." The girl is pregnant, 14 years old, and lives in this building. She literally threw herself at my Albert.

Last summer the little tramp came over here wearing a half bra and shorts cut up to her neck. I never saw anything like it. The girl was as fully developed as any 20-year-old Swedish actress. Once when I saw her plunk herself down on my son's lap I phoned her mother and told her to keep that little sex-pot at home.

Albert is nearly 21 and I suppose he should have known better, but after all, man is not made of wood. I say the girl and her mother are to blame. Please print my advice to other mothers with good looking sons: If you see something like this happening under your nose, get in there and break it up. — Heartsick in White Plains

Dear W.P.: There will always be sex-pots — and the age bracket is getting lower. My question is this: What's with a 20-year-old man that he would be fooling around with a 14-year-old girl? He has to be an idiot. Your Albert needs counseling and you could use some, too, Mom.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We live in a small community. My husband and I have some close friends who are as dear to us as if they were sister and brother. We are very hurt because they have not yet seen our new grandchild. The baby is four months old.

They say they are waiting for an invitation. We do not feel that an invitation need be extended. What is your opinion? — For Peace

Dear Peace: When a baby is born it is customary for friends to wait a few weeks, then phone the new parents and say, "We'd like to come by and see the baby. Is tomorrow night convenient?" (It is also customary to bring a little gift.)

If this couple is as close as you say I can't understand why they haven't done so. Good manners is also common sense.

Congratulations Are Whispered to Donna J. Donahue, 22, of Worcester, Mass., by two of her roommates, Karen Swanberg, left, of So. Dennis, Mass., and Bette Hehir, right, of Worcester after it was announced that Donna had been selected color girl for the graduation exercises of the U.S. Naval Academy. They share living quarters in West Newton, Mass. Donna is a nurse at Newton-Wellesley Hospital. (AP Wirephoto)

Academy's Color Girl Chosen

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A 5-foot-4 brunette will be this year's color girl at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Donna J. Donahue, 22, a registered nurse at Newton-Wellesley Hospital in Newton, Mass., was chosen by Midshipman Jack L. Conrad of Allentown, Pa., commander of this year's winning company.

The color company is selected from the 36 that make up the academy's 4,200-man brigade in year-long competition based on academic accomplishment, military precision, athletics and extracurricular activity.

Miss Donahue, a resident of Worcester, Mass., said Wednesday in a telephone interview that she and Conrad have dated several times since they met in Boston a few months ago when he was there with a classmate, but their relationship is not serious.

Conrad, who was captain of the Navy basketball team this year, commands the 23rd company.

Chalice Circle Elects Officers

Mrs. Wilbert Spanagel was re-elected president of Chalice Circle of The King's Daughters at a recent meeting. Other officers serving with her will be Mrs. Andrew Hopfensperger, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Timmerman, secretary; Mrs. A. L. Bevers, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Tolleite and Mrs. Kenneth Walter, Council representatives; and Mrs. C. L. Meyers, nominating committee chairman.

Donations were approved to the Appleton Public Library and Christ Child Society, and to assist an explorer scout attending training conferences this summer.

Mrs. Erwin Seybold, social chairman, announced that the summer party for members and their husbands will be June 14 at the Whiting Boat-house, Neenah, with dinner and dancing featured. Mrs. Tolleite and Mrs. Walter are the committee members.

A morning coffee was held to honor Mrs. Charles L. Reichert, who is retiring as

Chamber Asks Hearing Cancellation

Oshkosh Group Files Objection to Airport Hyphenation Session

OSHKOSH — The Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce announced today it has filed objections to a June 16 hearing by the Council on Aeronautics, scheduled at Fond du Lac, on the subject of dehyphenating the Oshkosh-Appleton Regional Airport designation.

Louise Micheln, executive vice president, said the chamber has asked F.E. Wolf, administrator, Division of Aeronautics, to cancel the announced meeting.

The Council on Aeronautics is only advisory to the division, Micheln's prepared statement pointed out.

Action by the chamber here was in response to a notice by John Conway, chairman, Council of Aeronautics, of the Fond du Lac hearing.

The Oshkosh chamber executive noted that a lengthy procedure was undertaken several years ago which considered all aspects of the Oshkosh-Appleton regional Airport designation.

He contended that a recommendation to dehyphenate any of the existing designations in Wisconsin would establish a precedent and upset a national Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) policy, opening the door to litigation throughout the nation.

"It probably would take over a decade for CAB to conclude the hearings and issue rulings on each of the contested designations, including those in Wisconsin," Micheln estimated.

He predicted that the Fond du Lac hearing will create antagonisms between business and government leaders in each of the contested hyphenated areas.

Elks Club Is Under Fire at Fond du Lac

District Attorney May File Charges For Gambling

FOND DU LAC — Charges are expected to be filed as the result of an investigation into alleged gambling at the Fond du Lac Elks Club Wednesday night.

Fond du Lac County Dist. Atty. Alexander P. Semanas said, however, he would wait until Monday before deciding what action to take.

Fond du Lac police have refused to make public the results of their investigation and have turned over their reports to the district attorney's office. There was no indication of whether any arrests were made at the time, but no one was jailed.

Police Chief Harold J. Rautenberg, said the reports of three policeman who investigated the complaint "indicated there was gambling going on." There were reports of card games and a roulette wheel in operation. Reportedly $105 was found at one table.

Rautenberg would not release the report but did say it contained the names of several persons who were participants in the alleged gambling.

It was estimated that there were about 200 men in the Elks Club for its annual stag night program.

Little Chute Recreation Sign-up Ends Monday

LITTLE CHUTE — Registration for the summer recreation program, including tennis, basketball and track for boys and girls and tee baseball for boys in sixth through eighth grades, will continue through Monday.

Registration forms are available at the swimming pool.

Mary Ann Weber, this year's Soap Box Derby queen, plays with the family pet at her home at 1702 S. Jefferson St. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Weber, Mary Ann is 14 and an eighth grader at Sacred Heart School. She will reign over the derby Sunday, June 13, along with her court, Patricia Francis, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Francis, 515 N. Center St., and Vicky Strutz, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Strutz, 2532 Oakwood Court.

Street Plans to be Submitted For Federal, State Approval

A list of 20 street improvement projects carrying a pre-mate, for signal light improvements at five intersections and the liminary cost estimate of $730,000 is about to be submitted for state and federal approval by Automobile Association recommendations for time spent on plans by Johnson and others in the office.

He said the projects, proposed for construction under the federal TOPICS program which pays nearly half the cost, are tentatively scheduled to be carried out between now and the end of 1975.

Some are already approved, under a system of accepting individual projects in order to get a community TOPICS program under way before the total plan has been developed. It is the city's total plan that Johnson is about to submit.

Widening of Memorial Drive to install a left turn lane in the south bound lane at Seymour Street and placement of signal lights at the intersection is one of the previously approved projects. The other is signal work at Meade Street and Northland Avenue.

The City Council this week approved six more projects of the pattern

Other proposals still to be approved both locally and at the state-federal level include eventually creating a pair of one-way streets on Washington and Franklin between Richmond and Lawe streets.

Washington is presently one-way westbound and Franklin is two-way. Under the new plan, Washington would be reversed to carry eastbound traffic and Franklin would be the west-bound carrier.

New traffic signals and widening of the Franklin intersection near Union Street and removal of a jog here are among plans.

Traffic signal and street marking improvements constitute much of the remainder of Johnson's proposed program, along with some intersection widening.

Pick Lobbyist To Head Fight For 2 Courts

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Waupaca County Bar Association has retained the services of one of its members, a professional lobbyist, to lead a drive to retain two county courts.

The pending state budget bill proposes the elimination of the second court now authorized for the county. It has the support of the State Judicial Council and the office of the state court administrator, which is asking for more judicial manpower in the populous counties and less in the smaller jurisdictions.

Richard Peterson of Waupaca, a former assemblyman and now a lobbyist, represents the county bar in the effort to retain the two court authorization.

Good Intentions of Industry Questioned

Progress Claimed

No one disagreed that the Fox River is seriously polluted but persons testifying before the Assembly's natural resources committee today differed on the good intentions of industry to do its share in the cleanup.

Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission and one of the 600-plus area petitioners for a Fox pollution probe, said that regulatory bodies have been "stacked" with industrial interests.

He blamed this "conflict of interest" for the ineffective cleanup efforts and called for a citizens board to keep tabs on enforcement progress.

His charges were countered by Gerhard Willecke, president-elect of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce and vice president of Miller Electric. Willecke said that the highly capable persons in industry have a responsibility to serve on pollution-fighting groups, as well as in other community groups.

Technical Knowledge He said they were on pollution groups "because they are the most technically knowledgeable people in the community, and therefore, they are doing their part."

He also said the chambers throughout the nation were committed to helping the community which includes cleaning up the environment.

The lengthy statements came at the opening of the hearing being conducted by the committee as a result of a petition in March assailing the scandalous polluting of the river and its associated surface waters and asking the Legislature to investigate.

State Rep. Lewis Mittness, D-Jamesville, committee chairman, said the goal is to determine if additional legislation is needed to help the Fox and other waters of Wisconsin. An airplane tour of the northeastern Wisconsin waters, plus a bus tour, are slated for the committee Saturday morning.

Others Testify

Other testifiers included John Wilson, Green Bay, of the Wisconsin Ecological Society, who said the State Department of Natural Resources shouldn't be hampered in tough abatement enforcement because of economic considerations. That's a political question, he said.

A statement by the Fox Valley Council of Governments, expected to be presented later today, called for an end to the "neo-McCarthyistic style" labeling of so-called polluters and a joint effort. It also discounted the Bubolz claims of conflicts of interest on COG committees.

Bubolz severely assailed industrial participation on pollution abatement boards, commissions and regulatory bodies, from the state level down to the COG and area municipalities' committees and commissions. He named industrial persons and the board or group they served on, and suggested that such a situation "might undermine the public good."

He said the state's Region III Citizens Water Advisory Board, responsible for suggesting water quality standards, had three of Fox Valley contractors and carpenters' union spokesmen say they have agreed on most non-economic language for a new contract, but have yet to talk about money.

The carpenters, who with the painters' union have been on strike since Tuesday, were among three of the five basic construction trade groups involved in negotiations Thursday with contractors.

Laborers and Teamsters sessions also were held. Bricklayers, meanwhile, were to meet contractors this afternoon in Green Bay, with a federal mediator present.

Further talks are scheduled Monday in the carpenters' dispute. Wednesday for laborers and painters and the following week for Teamsters.

River Valley Contractors Association.

All five contracts expired June 1. While the carpenters and painters are on strike, the other three unions continue to work if possible in the absence of the two striking crafts.

Officials said the striking unions won't picket unless they find carpenters' or painters' work is being done by others.

Sanatorium Use as Domiciliary Urged

Conversion of Riverview Sanatorium and general hospital to a domiciliary care facility with construction of new general hospital facilities at the Outagamie County Hospital grounds has been suggested by Dr. John Russo, Riverview superintendent.

Russo's views on the future of Riverview had been sought Thursday night by the county board's public properties and parks committee.

He said he thought the county would be foolish to get rid of the facility and build a replacement just to consolidate all facilities at one location.

There presently are 10 tuberculosis and 50 geriatric patients at Riverview.

Russo predicted that with the use of new drugs just announced the tuberculosis wing of Riverview could be eliminated in the near future and tuberculosis patients treated through an outpatient dispensary.

He said he thought Riverview would be ideal for the domiciliary resident who did not need high level nursing care.

Three or four years ago, he said, there may have been merit to the idea of consolidating everything at the county hospital "but since that original plan inflation has run rampant."

Originally, he said, a 300-bed hospital would have handled both geriatrics and domiciliary residents. Now, he predicted, a 300-bed hospital would cost $6 million. He said he felt a 150-bed hospital for geriatric patients might be sufficient if Riverview was retained for domiciliary care.

He said this would permit the Golden Age Home, which now occupies one wing of the county hospital, to be separated from the mental hospital facility.

"Centralization is fine," Dr. Russo said, "But we must be realistic."

He contended the biggest need was for the domiciliary patient—someone who needs a place to go but does not need extensive nursing care. "There is no place for domiciliary care patients in this county," Russo said.

The committee did not make any recommendation in the area of Riverview pending the county board's decision next week on a request of County Executive Alvin Woehler to set up a special study committee to update an earlier institutions study.

Four years ago a committee headed by Jack Shepard, Appleton Memorial Hospital administrator, had recommended consolidation of county institutions but the study was shelved by the county board without any action being taken.

Revival of that study has been listed as a priority item by Woehler.

Young People have been busy this week putting finishing touches on the Appleton Youth Drop-In Center, 527 N. Appleton St., for the open house to be held there from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Leonard Defends Dossiers on Lawmakers

BY BILL KNUTSON

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Former State Sen. Jerris Leonard returned to his old legislative battleground Thursday and during a visit with lawmakers denied he is in line for U. S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's job, defended mass arrests at the May Day demonstrations in Washington, endorsed the keeping of dossiers on lawmakers and plugged President Nixon's revenue sharing proposal.

Leonard, former legislator from Bayside who now heads the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in Washington, was the featured speaker at the state attorney general's Conference on Law Enforcement which concluded Thursday.

Leonard dismissed a report published in Washington Wednesday that he was being considered to replace Mitchell who reportedly plans to resign as the nation's top prosecutor to handle Nixon's 1972 presidential campaign.

He said Mitchell has not told him that he plans to leave.

Leonard, explaining that he desires to return to private life, said that instead of seeking a higher federal job he might remove himself from office when Nixon's term expires.

With State Atty. Gen. Robert Warren at his side during a press conference, Leonard was quizzed about the keeping of dossiers on public figures.

Leonard replied, "If federal legislators are violating federal laws, then there will be dossiers compiled on them, as I think there should be."

He continued, "If you're not violating the law you don't have anything to fear from Bob Warren and John Mitchell."

"I care not whether he is a powerful individual in terms of being a powerful politician or the lowest individual in the world. If he has violated the law we as citizens, collectively through our duly appointed police agencies, have not only the right but the obligation to compile dossiers on people who violate the law and I hope we will always continue to do that."

Easing of County's No-Camping Rule Sought

An easing of Outagamie County's no-camping rule is being recommended by the county board's public properties and parks committee to permit camping by youth groups with adult supervision.

The camping question was raised Thursday night by Warren Smith, scoutmaster of Troop 5 at St. Therese Catholic Church, who told the committee, "You cannot find anyplace to camp anymore."

He said he had planned on taking the troop to Barker access site at Shiocton until the no-camping signs were noticed.

Under existing county rules, no camping is permitted at any of the access sites or parks. However, scouts may camp at Plamann Park with special permission.

Smith said Plamann Park has been used but that the scouts occasionally like to go someplace else that is still local.

No Campgrounds

Supv. Nick Karras, Appleton, committee chairman, said he has received at least a dozen telephone calls in the last week inquiring about camping facilities in the county. There are neither public nor private campgrounds in Outagamie County.

The committee also referred

Supv. Al Krause, Town of Liberty, asked Smith what kind of facilities were needed for camping. "We don't need anything," he said, except a place to go.

Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, asked if Mosquito Hill would be satisfactory. Smith said that would be fine and that the committee could figure out a project for the scouts to do while they were there.

Recreation Program

The proposal for the rule change was referred to the corporation counsel for his opinion.

The committee also referred to County Executive Alvin Woehler a request to determine whether funds were available in the current budget to operate a recreation program at Plamann Park this summer.

Karras noted that daily attendance at the swimming lake ranges from 1,200 to 3,000 and that if other recreational facilities were available the children could make use of them. "For the little cost involved, we could try it and see how it works this summer," he said.

His suggestion was to hire someone to organize recreational activities at the park for the summer.

Supv. Ted Kemps, Kimberly, questioned whether they shouldn't wait until next year. "We've got a lot going there already with the lake and the comprehensive plan," he said.

He also questioned whether the park was too far from the city for that type of program.

Karras said there was "no question in my mind about the need. The only question is the money."

In other action, the committee recommended that Brewster Street be extended through county property between Blue-

3-Year-Old Killed In Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — A 3-year-old boy was killed about 9:30 a.m. today when he rode his tricycle into the path of a car near his home.

Authorities identified the victim as Timothy A. Smits, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smits, 315 Wallace St. Combined investigation by Combined Locks police late this morning, arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he was taken by ambulance, according to Kenneth Kemps, Outagamie County deputy coroner. Death apparently was the result of a broken neck, Kemps said.

According to Kemps, the youngster, who was playing along Wallace Street with several other children, rode his tricycle into the street in front of an eastbound car driven by John A. Vandehey, 18, 1032 Adams Place, Kimberly. The accident was still under investigation by Combined Locks police late this morning. The boy's death is the 10th of the year in Outagamie County and the first of the year in the Jansen Funeral Home. Kimberly, is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Neenah Council Heads Seek New Committee System

NEENAH — Sweeping changes in the city's committee structure designed to "reflect the needs and programs of the 70's" is being proposed by Ald. Michael G. Ellis.

Ellis, who is the council president, in a plan which will be distributed to all aldermen Monday, suggests a major re-structure into five groups of three aldermen each, which he says will stimulate "better co-ordination with departments and give aldermen a stronger voice in policy making."

The three-pronged approach, which is being suggested by Ellis, would create new committees, consolidate the functions of the Neenah council and two some present committee, and eliminate three of the existing committees.

Under the present system, there are five committees, including finance, health and welfare, public protection, street and sanitation plus public works levels which is made up of the chairman of the other four "nah."

Ellis said, "It's inconsistent that the committee structure, which plays a vital role in the legislative process, should reflect the needs and programs of the 30's and 40's."

In his proposal, Ellis suggests five committees including: —Finance, which would continue to function on all money matters as it does now.

—Health and social services, which would assume the duties of the public protection and health and welfare plus have jurisdiction over the library, board and police and fire commission.

—Planning and capital improvements, to deal with all long-range planning, annexations, zoning, plus establishing a long-range growth pattern, and taking over for the now dormant

Involvement, Humor Stressed at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — "Because of result of a class effort. She told the involvement of the past, we of students caring for one another through remembering birthdays, sending cards when one was sick or preparing a good luck note for team members before a big game. "Many of the times we went out of our way to make others happy, and that's exactly what life should be like," said the speaker.

Recalling the work done by all the students in preparing home-coming floats she pointed to the felling of pride each student had in his class. "Side by side, hour upon hour we worked as a unit striving for a win... and win we did. We could not have won, however, if it hadn't been for all 250 students from the class of '71" because each member of our class contributed in some way," she stated.

Miss Weyenberg recalled the Junior Prom when things "worked out perfectly" as a shared with one another will be that you can carry through life.

Concluding she stated, "We, the graduates, realize we have a great deal to learn as we leave our memorable years behind. We must march out of here tonight and be on our own, but what we have gained from school life has prepared us for the future. We will be ready to face what may lie ahead. Today is the first day of the rest of our lives. The love we have there is but one characteristic shared with one another will be that you can carry through life.

'System' Attacked at Neenah

NEENAH — Both student speakers during Shattuck High School's graduation program Thursday night attacked both the educational system and society.

"The only meaningful thing this school system has really done for me is to open my eyes to the blind sheep being regimanted through this building for eight hours a day," Gary Nash said.

And Barbara Fetters had a similar message: "The only joy I do feel comes from my relief at receiving my diploma and leaving."

Miss Fetters said that her education at Neenah High has failed to produce a "happy, satisfied Barb Fetters," but instead it has brought a "great deal of confusion and bitterness."

"Somehow, it just doesn't seem sane that we can go through 12 years of school and come out without knowing who we are, what we want, or what we could be," she told the thousands of parents at Shattuck.

Nash said he would like to say thanks "for myself and other students who have made it through and are still aware of themselves and the world in spite of the system."

Both students criticized society as it is, and both spoke of dreams.

Many adults, Nash said, wonder why the younger generation rebels so much.

"I think we have valid reasons," he said, adding, "We want to be around to see our children grow up in a beautiful world, and not this one."

The issue at hand, Nash said, is "not how to produce or even distribute goods but how to live human lives; not how to enrich the nation but how to make the world a decent habitation for mankind."

"We don't want to be taught how to manage a dehumanized machine culture that the older generation has already lost control of," Nash told his fellow students and the older generation.

Miss Fetter's theme was to allow people to be and do what they want, to allow them to dream.

But society doesn't really allow that, she said.

Serve Society "I get the suffocation, paralyzing feeling that so many people will never even be alive mentally — they will go through life as though their sole purpose is to serve mechanized society. They will never really have a thought or dream of their own," she said.

She said that people today in the U.S. don't usually have to worry as much about the basics of life as food and a place to sleep which they did have to years ago.

Menasha Considers 17-Acre Landfill

MENASHA — The city has its $6,750 this year, and five subse-ey on a sanitary landfill site on the north side. It will ask the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for its approval, probably next week.

The city has had the site in mind for some time. Soil borings, for $150, have already been conducted.

The site is on 17.5 acres of land the city presently has an option on. It lies near the George Banta Co. Midway Road plant and north of Midway Road.

Plans are to use about 11.5 acres of the site (the non-wooded area) for a sanitary landfill site for between three and five years. Officials say there will be tight restrictions placed on what can be dumped at the site.

The entire site will then be turned into a city park, with emphasis on winter sports activities. Bruno Haas said today that the option runs out in July.

The price for the land is $106,750, or about $6,100 per acre. The owner is Carl Schwarzbauer.

The 17.5 acre site has been included in the six-year park development plan now awaiting common council approval. It calls for a down payment of the city.

Attorney Gives Lawmen Tips on Trial Preparation

MADISON — Policemen and prosecutors got a lesson in successful trial preparation Thursday from a courtroom adversary.

Madison attorney Richard E. Lent was one of three speakers at a trial preparation seminar held as part of State Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's annual Law Enforcement Conference which ended Thursday. Others participating in the discussion were Milwaukee County Dist. Atty. E. Michael McCann and David C. Mebane, an assistant attorney general.

Lent, a former Dane County deputy district attorney and now chairman of the Madison Fire and Police Commission, used some of his own experience as a veteran criminal defense lawyer to show lawmen and district attorneys how they can be better prepared when they enter the courtroom.

Lent said that one of his first considerations in formulating a defense is trying to establish an alibi for his client. The next is seeking a break in the chain of evidence presented by the prosecution.

Leonard Backs Dossiers on Lawmakers

from State Assembly Democrats who contend he is keeping files on state legislators. Warren has denied the allegation.

Leonard said Washington police did the right thing in arresting some 13,000 demonstrators on May Day and added that he saw little significance in the fact that charges against thousands of them were dismissed. He labeled the Washington demonstration "an act of collective violence" and said he believed everyone arrested was guilty.

Leonard told some 200 police officials and district attorneys at the conference that, "in a substantial measure, the future of our system depends on the adoption of (Nixon's) revenue-sharing proposal."

"At stake," he explained, "is the continued existence of states, cities and counties as effective, independent bodies of government." Nixon's proposal for specific revenue-sharing in the area of law enforcement would be of "tremendous benefit" to state and local governments, Leonard said, because it would mean that they no longer would have to match federal assistance grants.

Revenue Sharing

Leonard was critical of revenue-sharing opponents. "The opposition doesn't come from the majority of state and local officials who know their own problems best," delegates were told. "The opposition," Leonard said, "strangely enough comes from members of Congress."

He said that while there are some who argue that opposition is so formidable that revenue sharing is a dead issue, he still considers it "a very live issue." Opponents, he charged, "are turning a deaf ear to the people."

Leonard was optimistic about long-range results in the nation's fight against crime. In the last two years, he said, crime has grown at an average of less than 12 per cent, compared to a growth of 16 per cent for the previous two years. And, in 22 cities, including Washington, D.C., the crime rate was reduced last year.

There are, however, serious problems in the criminal justice system, Leonard declared. Taking top priority, lawmen were informed, are:

Priority Problems

— Recidivism. Two of three offenders are "back into the system" within six years and for those under 21 years of age, the figure is three of four.

— Juvenile delinquency. "Arrests of juveniles are growing three to four times as fast as their numbers are growing," Leonard said.

— Narcotics. In big cities, narcotics comprise half of all criminal activities, he said.

— Courts. "Some states are lost somewhere in the 19th century."

— Prisons. "In some states there has been little change in 200 years." Prison conditions in some states have mushroomed into national scandals, Leonard charged.

— Police. There is, he explained, a need for more and better trained policemen, improved police-community relations and more and better equipment and techniques.

Kaukauna Committee To Review COG Plan

KAUKAUNA — The commercial, industrial and city development committee will meet at 4 p.m. Monday in the council chambers to review a Fox Valley Council of Governments comprehensive plan for the city.

The group also is expected to discuss a recommendation for formation of an Industrial Development Corp. to work with existing industries and to promote new industries for the community.

attorney and "... don't assume his mastery of the case is as good as yours."

Trial preparation, McCann explained, must begin before the actual commission of the offense.

Re-enact Crime

McCann said he likes to re-enact a crime at the scene using policemen and witnesses. The re-enactment should take place at approximately the same hour as the actual crime, he advised.

It sometimes is better to prepare cases "on the street," he said, because "many people feel police departments, district attorneys office and courts are inherently coercive places."

Mebane, who heads the criminal unit in the legal services division of the attorney general's office, cautioned lawmen that their job is only half over after they have completed their investigation of a case.

its five members who were employees of or associated with corporations. A similar condition existed on the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission at a recent critical period, he said.

He also named the Fox-Wolf Watershed Council, an affiliation of three planning agencies, for having had industry dominate COG delegates. He noted that the Kaukauna City Council had three industry members and indicated the city was planning a landfill which would pollute the river.

Bubolz also cited alleged statements by industrial persons which he said showed their undesirable attitude toward Fox cleanup.

Willecke didn't categorically discount Bubolz's statements and said he was right about the river being polluted. But he said that to refer to the business community as ignoring the pollution problem "is not quite correct."

Job of Officials

He said business experts have been community leaders and agreed that if they are to be kept off policy-influencing bodies, that is the job of elected officials who have appointed them to such.

"The personality of the individual, his place of employment is not an issue in the effort to better our environment," he said. "His expertise and the contribution of this expertise is needed and should be employed, not disparaged."

He said the chamber was calling for "more unified constructive efforts and less negative intervention by personalities which impede the orderly process of problem solving."

He also urged enforcement of abatement regulations.

Bubolz outlined several points to solve the problem. He called for a comprehensive cleanup, starting with abatement at the Shawano Lake and moving down the Wolf to the mid-Fox Valley area; regular monitoring of discharges into the river and public disclosure of such, and severe taxing of polluters to discourage their polluting.

River Statistics

Wilson presented statistics on river studies and noted that industry was a greater contributor of pollution than the people of Wisconsin. He said the Fox River, Green Bay and Lake Michigan had been "studied and overstudied" and complained that action was "sadly lacking."

He urged a study of a cost benefit analysis of joint industrial-municipal treatment of effluents and the DNR to upgrade its efforts.

Wilson also assailed a Fox River cleanup project to aerate the oxygen-deficient water as ineffective, saying treatment of discharges is more effective.

'Cultivate Individuality,' Speakers Tell Fellow Kaukauna Graduates

KAUKAUNA — Three Kaukauna High School graduates told their alma mater had helped make each an individual. Now, with different experiences and individuality, yet to creatively values, they would have to face a new life, she said.

She advised students to maintain their own identity, but not at the expense of living a life of solitude. "A person only can become a complete individual when he has friends."

Correction

KAUKAUNA — Linda Vandeyacht was senior class president and a speaker for Kaukauna High School's commencement exercises Thursday. She also was winner of the student council scholarship.

She was not, however, co-valedictorian or winner of the Thilmany scholarship. The latter two honors went to Lynn Vandeyacht. The Post-Crescent Thursday erroneously identified Linda Vandeyacht as co-valedictorian and Thilmany scholarship winner.

and graduates. Speakers, chosen by fellow students, were Linda Vandeyacht, William Grogan and Donna Muelemans.

Linda, who is class president, told the audience that the root of social problems in America is selfishness. Because of this, she said, "solutions cannot come by throwing out the old and simply bringing in the new," but, rather, solutions come about slowly as people learn to live creatively, and love their neighbors.

Face Reality

She said the way to end alienation in society is to face up to reality and to avoid a life filled with imagination.

AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Police & Fire Beat

An inventory will be conducted to determine if anything is missing from the home of Allan Cain, 2728 E. Wisconsin Ave., who reported a burglary to the Outagamie County sheriff's department Wednesday.

Investigators said a rear door had been forced open. A bedroom was ransacked and several items were disturbed, police said.

Linda L. Barrow, 26, New York, sustained bumps, cuts and bruises Thursday when the automobile she was driving went out of control on U.S. 10, just west of Appleton, and struck a power pole and building. She was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

Outagamie County police said she was traveling west on U.S. 10 when the car skidded and struck the pole broadside, breaking it off. The car then hit the wall of the Outagamie County Cooperative, 3011 W. Wisconsin Ave. Police estimated $2,000 damage to the 1971 car.

Mrs. Robert Rechner, 313 W. Prospect Ave., reported the theft of two snow tires, worth $180, to Appleton police Wednesday. The tires were stolen from a storage shed on her property, she said. Police said a padlock on the shed door had been pried off.

Appleton firemen Wednesday afternoon went to the home of Daniel Zuleger, 801 W. Frances St., on a false alarm.

Fire fighters went to the Appleton Post Office, 129 N. Superior St., Thursday, to remove smoke that accumulated in an elevator shaft when an electric motor malfunctioned.

KIMBERLY — Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, 304 1/2 N. Wilson St., reported to police the theft of her wallet containing various cards and a small amount of change while she was at the Kimberly Laundromat over the weekend. The wallet was left on a table in the business place and several people were using facilities at the time, according to Mrs. Johnson.

SHIOCTON — Robert L. Scott, 16, route 1, Black Creek, suffered a sore neck and bruises, and his passenger, Paula M. Suprise, 17, route 1,

New London, a cut to the forehead, when the pickup truck Scott was driving went out of control on Old State 34 south-west of here and rolled over. Outagamie County police said both were taken to New London Community Hospital by ambulance after the accident that occurred about 11:30 p.m. Sunday.

Steven R. Pegel, 23, of 1339 W. College Ave., suffered minor injuries Wednesday when the car he was driving collided with a car driven by Harold Linzmeyer, 61, 1825 S. Oneida St.

The collision took place as Linzmeyer, who was traveling west on U.S. 47, turned into Valley Fair Shopping Center and was struck by Pegel, who was traveling east. The Linzmeyer auto was hit on the right rear fender. Pegel was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by a Menasha ambulance.

Storm Water Proposals Seek COG Approval

Final 2 Plans for Regional Services Ok'd by Committee

The final two proposals for a four-part study of regional service districts for the Fox Cities area will be brought before the Fox Valley Council of Governments next week for approval.

The COG public works technical advisory committee Wednesday approved the regional storm water drainage plan which calls for wider and covered ditches, plus a coordinated intercommunity system based on the area's drainage patterns.

The committee earlier voted to recommend that existing surface water supply systems be expanded to meet future needs. This includes using Lake Winnebago and ground water sources.

Both recommendations will go to the COG governing body next Wednesday. The body earlier approved regional solid waste disposal and sewage treatment plans but neither have gotten far in implementation.

The storm drainage is considered the least critical of the four regional proposals which came out of a 1969 engineering study by Donohue and Associates, Sheboygan. However, the drainage proposal includes an implementation provision, which the others don't, and it is approved by the COG body and member communities' councils or boards, it will set the accepted development for the next 30 years.

The committee Wednesday didn't have a quorum but the four members present agreed to bring in a recommendation, noting in past meetings that there was little opposition from most of the absent members.

Committee members expressed concern about whether communities would back the proposal, but Robert Miller, Appleton public works director, noted the drainage proposal asks "nothing that common sense wouldn't dictate."

Modern As Tomorrow, that's a good description of the Belling Pharmacy physical layout and handsome exterior. That's also an excellent way to describe the up-to-the-minute services they offer all their customers. (Adv.)

Belling Pharmacy Maintains Family Health Record File

Every time a prescription is filled for you by Belling Pharmacy, 214 E. College Ave., complete information includes the prescription, doctor, name of medication, date and price.

This added service is given Belling's customers without charge. At the end of the year the amount spent on health is mailed to the buyer for income tax purpose. The information also is helpful should the record needed be checked, such as for possible incompatibility in case doctors are changed.

Belling's, located right in downtown Appleton, center of shopping, is dedicated to your better health. Dedication goes into every prescription — a desire to serve you and your health needs is the guiding principle for every pharmacist as he compounds prescriptions, dispenses medication and other health products.

In addition to keeping the family health record file, Belling's provides free prescription delivery. Promptness goes into every description at Belling's. When you bring in a prescription, you can count on Belling's, not to substitute. Qualified and experienced pharmacists fill it exactly as the doctor ordered. Phone number of Belling's is 733-5551. # Losses Heavy Without GI Ground Support

SAIGON (AP) — High-ranking South Vietnamese field commanders today acknowledged heavy losses at the Cambodian town of Snuol and said they have switched to mobile tactics in cross-border operations.

One reason cited by a South Vietnamese general is the loss of backup U.S. ground forces. He indicated the South Vietnamese would continue to rely heavily on full U.S. air support for some time to come.

The South Vietnamese officers briefed newsmen on Cambodian operations but specified that their names could not be disclosed.

They said Saigon's Task Force 8, which retreated from Snuol last Monday, suffered 300 killed, wounded or missing, but some of its 74 missing have been straggling back across the border. The force is no longer effective for combat, and it will take about a month to rebuild it, one general said.

Two other task forces numbering about 3,000 men have been diverted from another operation in Cambodia 60 miles away to protect the border south of Snuol and 80 miles north of Saigon.

One South Vietnamese general said he would not promise to destroy the three enemy divisions in that part of eastern Cambodia or their bases, but he would "reduce their potential and try to do the best to cut off their infiltration into South Vietnam."

"I will never stop cross-border operations, even in the rainy season," the general said, "but I will be flexible depending on factors and other problems. Before, our troops were tied up securing roads. Now, with two task forces south of Snuol, we can be more mobile. We have not forgotten Snuol. We can go back and forth across the border."

Field commanders said the withdrawal in the past year of two U.S. divisions from the 3rd Military region, the 11 provinces around Saigon, had forced the South Vietnamese troops to provide their own highway security on the Vietnamese side of the border for their supply lines into Cambodia.

"The mission of 10 men is now reduced to five," said a South Vietnamese general. "I feel some difficulties."

While conceding serious losses at Snuol, the general claimed South Vietnamese troops and U.S. aircraft wiped out more than 1,000 enemy troops, the equivalent of a regiment. He said four North Vietnamese regiments had moved on Snuol and would have annihilated Task Force 8 if it had not pulled back.

Field commanders reported, meanwhile, that 63 Khmer Rouge, the Communist-led Cambodian troops, surrendered at a South Vietnamese base near the Cambodian town of Krek and handed over 46 weapons.

Lucey's Regent Choice Confirmed by Senate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A lot of last-minute politicking resulted in the Senate's confirmation of Gov. Patrick Lucey's appointment of John Levine of Chippewa Falls to the Board of Regents of State Universities by a 25 to 5 vote Thursday afternoon.

The Senate tabled the appointment of the newspaper publisher last week, refused to take it from the table Thursday morning, revived it in the afternoon, held two caucuses voted against postponing action for another week or two and finally agreed to seat Levine.

The appointment was the first of Lucey's nominations to arouse debate on the floor of the Senate. The controversy revolved around his ownership of a newspaper that has a contract to print the Eau Claire State University student newspaper: the fact that he is not from Superior, the campus he would represent if the so-called local regent tradition is maintained; and a desire on the part of a few legislators to hold up all regent appointments until the proposed merger of the two university systems is considered by the legislature.

Despite the overwhelming approval of the appointment, the difficulty in reaching a conclusion on Levine's position is likely to be repeated when the Senate is called on to consider the naming of David Carley of Madison to the UW-Board of Regents.

Some legislators are concerned about his ownership of student apartments adjacent to the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay campus, and the conflict of interest they might involve. Carley has said he will abstain from voting on any matter that might concern him in connection with UWGB if he is seated on the board.

Levine last week met with Attorney General Robert Warren and his own attorney to map out his plans to divest himself of interest in the Eau Claire printing contract, and Warren has since said the plans are adequate to remove any conflict of interest.

Cirilili Offended
Sen. Arthur Cirilli R-Superior has several times expressed opposition to the appointment of Levine to replace Sinto Westman of Superior. Cirilli has said he was offended that Levine is not from Superior and that he was not contacted about the nomination before Lucey announced it, a courtesy he expected. But, following the noon-time break Cirilli joined the majority and agreed that the nomination should be taken from the table and discussed. He voted for the appointment as well.

Sen. Ernest Keppler Senate Majority leader from Sheboygan explained his opposition to voting on the confirmation as a means of gaining time to probe public interest in an elected board of regents. Keppler read from a letter he plans to send to all state newspapers asking for public sentiment about an elected board. He favors its consideration with merger proposal.

"If I've lost the case by then (when the merger is considered) then the chances are I would vote for these men," Keppler said.

He said he favored delay until the merger and elected board issues are settled because it would be difficult to install an elected board after gubernatorial appointments lasting five years on the WSU board and nine on the University of Wisconsin board are already approved.

Reasons for the remaining opposition were not clear, although the senators indicated they were primarily interested in postponing the vote, rather than opposing the nomination.

Sen. Raymond Henzen R-Marshfield and chairman of the education committee that recommended confirmation was confused by the opposition. Convinced the questions had been resolved, he could not explain the vote.

Assembly Shelves Private School Aid Despite Support

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — In spite of powerful pushing by its supporters, the Senate-approved bill to establish a system of tuition grants to the parents of parochial and other non-public school children was shelved for at least a month when it reached the state Assembly Thursday.

Little Left To Couple Besides Hope

The week before Christmas they sold some of the last of their furniture, stored in a friend's garage, and spent the night in a motel. "It was $16.80 for the cheapest room," Konarsky says. "One night was all we could take."

Cold of Winter
They remember the cold of winter in the car and the time the ice melted so he could again dig for the clams that are their staple food. Finally they were down to their last can of beets and decided to abandon their pride.

They went to a welfare office — and were turned away. "They told me I couldn't get any because we didn't have a permanent address," he says.

A welfare spokesman said they refused to answer questions about their backgrounds. He also noted that their clothes seemed so neat and the car so well kept.

"We got some water from the hydrant and got fixed up to go down there," Konarsky explains. As for the car, "I don't have much else to do but keep it nice."

Now the Welfare Department says it is looking into the couple's case again. Meanwhile the Konarskys continue to live in the car, sitting in it by day, sleeping in it by night and driving to Mamaroneck for clams when they have enough gas.

Milwaukee Can't Block Plan For New State Expressway

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The State Highway Commission has decided the state can proceed with a Milwaukee-Green Bay expressway whether local officials approve it or not, a spokesman said Thursday.

The commission voted 3-0 for construction of a $121-million, northerly extension of Milwaukee's Stadium Freeway, a project which figures in municipal plans and protests against destruction of residential areas.

The Milwaukee Common Council has adopted a moratorium on expressway work until the state provides assurances there will be adequate replacement housing for persons whose homes are destroyed by the construction. The city has requested the support of Milwaukee County's Board of Supervisors.

William R. Redmond, chairman of the highway commission, said the 3-0 vote is final, and that construction of the Milwaukee County segment of Interstate 57 can proceed regardless of the county board's opinion.

The vote involves an extension of the Stadium Freeway north to the Ozaukee County line, costing about $11 million a mile, destroying 1,326 homes, and consuming $21 million of the city's property tax base.

Many Opposed
The state's passion to build Interstate 57 north to Green Bay has run into opposition in other localities. Residents of the rolling Kettle Moraine have been organizing committees against what they call unnecessary destruction of scenic countryside.

Conservationists have been similarly angry with plans for routing the highway through Ozaukee County's Cedarburg Bog.

Redmond said the commission hopes to decide in a week on a route through the bog area to Saukville.

Decisions on construction of the highway north of Saukville through Sheboygan, Manitowish and Brown counties won't have to be made before Aug. 15, he said.

The government has provided assurances the expressway will carry the Interstate 57 label. Redmond said, meaning federal funds would cover 90 per cent of construction costs.

Soviets Launch Campaign To Boost Bolivian Economy

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Soviet Union has launched an economic offensive in Bolivia with one aim apparently to show the world that the aid it can provide is much more favorable than the U.S. variety.

Measures taken by the left-wing nationalist government of President Juan Jose Torres in the past two years have diminished U.S. influence, and the Russians are trying to replace it.

Press reports indicated recently that the Soviet government has decided to cooperate with the Torres regime in carrying forward several industrialization programs growing out of the nationalization of several U.S.-owned firms.

The most important project calls for Soviet cooperation in exploration of the high Andean plateau in search of oil. The area now is arid and poverty-stricken; oil would be a huge boost to it.

Big Investment
Exploration, scheduled to begin late this year, involves an investment of $35 million to $40 million over four years.

Negotiations to obtain U.S. financing for "really big projects" always have been met with very well defined U.S. policy that they cannot make loans for development of the oil industry because there are private firms operating in the field," he said.

A Soviet mission is scheduled to arrive soon to study Bolivian plans and define specific areas which will receive aid.

The Bolivians also hope to obtain Soviet financing to help them set up a petrochemical industry.

"The Russian credit," Mariaca said, "will be one of the most positive factors for the economic and social development of an area of more than 115,000 square miles as well as for mining areas."

Began Last Year
Soviet-Bolivian cooperation began last year when, for the first time, the Bolivian government agreed to sell tin to the Soviet Union. This was followed by Soviet expressions of willingness to build a zinc refinery using ore produced by a U.S.-owned firm, Mina Matilde Corp.

Mina Matilde, jointly owned by U.S. Steel and Phillips Mineral and Chemicals Corp., was nationalized on April 30.

Russia also has offered to supply Bolivia with seeds of Siberian wheat to help the country become self-sufficient in production of cereals. Bolivia, meanwhile, is negotiating for Russian help in improving health, transportation and housing in the country's tropical areas.

In the past two years, the United States has suffered several important losses in Bolivia, including the nationalization of Mina Matilde, and holdings belonging to Gulf Oil Co., and the International Metal Processing Corp.

The Bolivian government last month announced it had decided to end the agreement under which U.S. Peace Corps volunteers had worked in Bolivia since 1962.

The Bolivian government also has made indirect attacks on the Nixon administration at a number of recent inter-American conferences.

Plan Agencies Agree to Merge

consolidation would not weaken metropolitan planning in the COG area and that ongoing programs of both agencies would continue. He said he considered the step a consolidation, not a merger.

He said that the intensifying planning battle led him to feel that something must be done to break the stalemate. He cited the county-level fight in Winnebago County.

Anderson said that Eugene Franchetti's recent resignation as COG executive director played no role in his decision to accept Bubolz's invitation to renew merger talks.

Bubolz said he felt that "both Mayor Anderson and I believe a consolidation is possible which will preserve the best elements of both our organizations and still satisfy federal planning requirements."

He said the new agency would begin operating next Jan. 1.

Noting that he was honored to have been Northeastern's chairman, he said he believed in a "philosophy of regional planning that is above politics—one that is best for the environment is beset for the environment they live in."

The chairmen apparently are certain how to resolve the disagreement over the northern counties. Anderson said that more discussions could be held. There also is the possibility that talks could be turned over to the two agencies' executive or policy committees, as was suggested by both chairmen this week.

The five northern counties in question are Forest, Florence, Langlade, Shawano and Menominee. Northeastern's other member counties are Winnebago, Waupaca, Outagamie and Waushara.

The metropolitan agency, COG, is made up of 14 towns, villages and cities in the tri-county area. The communities in Outagamie and Winnebago represent an overlap in jurisdictions, a major reason for the planning difficulties and need for change.

Also, the federal and state governments have indicated that only one agency would be recognized for this area.

Andrew Hill, a junior partner in the London firm of William Hill and Son, displays the Lady Blunt Stradivarius his firm bought for a record $201,600 at Southby's Thursday. The price is four times the previous record of $52,800 paid in 1968. The violin is named for one of its many owners, Lady Anne Blunt, a granddaughter of the poet, Lord Byron. ## Sherman To Present First Special

BY TV SCOUT
7:30 Channels 11-9 — It's just called Bobby and if you're a teeny-bopper you won't have to be told that (gasp, gasp, sigh) it's Bobby Sherman's first special. His fans will think this is television's finest half hour, although older and wiser heads may not agree. Anyway, Bobby is handsome, his costumes are dazzling (wait until you see the low-necked, fringed beauty of the last one), he sings all his hits and, in a good moment, he sings "Love's Been Good to Me" with some low motion photography of him playing tyke, swimming with a young lady and walking with an old lady. The Fifth Dimension, in great costumes, sings "Light Sings" and becomes the 6th Dimension when Bobby joins them for "Feelin' Alright." Rip Taylor is another guest, reading funnies and insulting Bobby: "Look at that face — he's been in make-up since November."

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — Over her husband's protests, Victoria accompanied by Mano and Blue leaves The High Chaparral to go visit a friend who is about to give birth. En route, she is captured by an Apache and apparently rescued by three men who turn out to be bandits. (R)
6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Stephen Brooks as Dr. Pettit, considers leaving medicine on The Interns. He is upset over a child who died during a hospital emergency and he is inclined to blame Dr. Goldstone. (R)

7:30-9 Channel 5 — Name of the Game concludes its look at Sammy Davis Jr. as a superstar who needs love. Sammy gives a good performance, being particularly effective in the dramatic climax. Joey Bishop, Ike and Tina Turner and Al Fisher and Lou Marks also appear. (R)
8-8:30 Channels 11-9 — Marlo Thomas bakes her engagement ring into a cake on That Girl. When she discovers that's where the ring is, there's lots of panic since the cake is on the way to the governor's mansion. (R)

8:30-9 Channels 11-9 — Fun and games for the Odd Couples, when Oddball No. 1 (Tony Randall), a photographer by trade, is forced to use Oddball No. 2 (Jack Klugman) as his model in a new ad campaign. The show always has witty lines. Tonight there are some pretty ones — three models. (R)
9-10 Channel 5 — Strange Report has an absorbing story of a young man (Kenneth Haigh) who kidnaps a Red Chinese, brainwashes him and offers him in exchange for an Englishman being held in Peking. (R)

9-10 Channels 11-9 — Love, American Style has a story about a man trying to make a beautiful girl jealous, one about an immigrant in love with his night-school teacher, one about a practical joker and one about a gorgeous girl who wants to marry an average young man. Among the actors: Marilyn (CQ) Mason, Arte Johnson, Margaret O'Brien, Reni Santoni, Larry Storch, E. J. Peaker, Alice Ghostley, Barbara Rhoades, Lou Jacobi and a funny newcomer, Wes Stern, who will be a regular next season on Bobby Sherman's series. (R)

Adopted by Pepper Ringling Circus Baby Tigers Doing Fine, Thanks to Dog

"Boy" and "Girl," two infant tigers born May 13 to Tina, one of the performing animals of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, trainer Gunther Gebel-Williams, are in good health.
The cubs, who came close to succumbing when their own mother refused to nurse them after their birth backstage at New York City's Madison Square Garden, were saved by Pepper, a golden retriever owned by Mrs. Janet Bunce of Smithtown, N.Y. Pepper took the tiny tigers under her wing and fed them along with her own canine offspring.
Put on Formula
Although Pepper's tender ministrations were just what the cubs needed to get a good start in life, it was soon apparent that they could not survive on dog's milk alone.
Consultations with Gebel-Williams and several veterinarians familiar with the problems of raising wild animals in captivity, led to the decision to switch the cubs from Pepper to tube-feeding the cubs with a formula especially developed to meet the needs of baby cats — domestic or wild.
The painstaking job of feeding the cubs was given to Mrs. Ursula Lanino, also of Smithtown, another dog breeder who has experience in feeding less exotic baby animals by tube.
3 Pounds, 15 Ounces
Mrs. Lanino reports that the cubs now each weigh approximately 3 pounds, 15 ounces — almost three times their weight at birth.
Irvin Feld, president and producer of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, is most concerned with the health and welfare of the cubs and has asked Mrs. Lanino to care for the young animals until the veterinarians feel that it is safe for them to rejoin The Greatest Show on Earth.
It is estimated that the tigers will remain in Mrs. Lanino's care for a month to six weeks.

Appleton East's Lee Bauman hits the dirt after colliding with Gibraltar first baseman Bob Manson in the fourth inning of Thursday's sectional baseball tour-

Meet for Sectional Title

Ghosts, Patriots Triumph

BY GENE LILLGE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Kaukauna's Tom Nagan and Appleton East's John Allen turned in excellent pitching performances Thursday afternoon to advance their respective teams to the sectional finals of the WIAA State Baseball Tournament.

In the first game of a twin bill at Goodland Field, Nagan scattered four hits as the Ghosts whipped Oshkosh, 8-1. Allen fanned seven and walked only one as he fired a two-hitter and shutout Gibraltar, 6-0, in the second game.

Appleton East and Kaukauna meet this afternoon at Goodland field for the sectional championship and a berth in the state tournament at Marion next week.

Hit By Pitch

Kaukauna took advantage of one hit and two Oshkosh errors to push across two runs in the first inning. Bob Vanden Heuvel was hit by a Steve Tesch pitch to open the game. After Leon Franzek flew out to the center fielder, Al Borchardt reached first on a throwing error by shortstop Jeff Beck, with Vanden Heuvel taking third.

Tesch got Dave Vanderloop on strikes, but then Nagan aided his own cause with a single to left scoring Vanden Heuvel. An error on the play enabled Borchardt to score and sent Nagan to third. Jim Sprangers grounded out to end the inning. The Indians got their only run in the bottom half of the first.

Nagan settled down from there, allowing just two more runs.

Lead Reduced

Foxes Bow, 4-2 To Cedar Rapids

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia. — Ted Breshears and a sacrifice fly by Mike Senton.

Bennett scored the third Cedar Rapids run in the sixth on an unusual play. The Cardinal left fielder struck out but the ball got away from Foxes catcher Brian Downing and rolled into the Cedar Rapids dugout, enabling Bennett to reach second. Breshears followed with a single to score Bennett.

Cedar Rapids got one more run in the seventh when Jim Hairston homered over the right field wall.

Johnson accounted for Appleton's only other run when he opened the eighth with a walk and advanced on a wild pitch and two infield outs.

Mike Atkinson (3-3) was charged with the loss.

The Foxes move on to Clinton tonight for a twin bill with the Pilots.

Appleton opened the scoring in the first inning when Ross Sapp reached first on an error, stole second, took third on an infield out, and scored when Lamar Johnson singled.

The Cardinals tied the score in the second when Hector Cruz walked and Russ Bennett and Breshears followed with singles. Cedar Rapids took the lead in the fourth on hits by Cruz and

That was the Reds' best chance for a hit. It seemed like such a good idea that Buddy Bradford, who drew two of the four walks off Holtzman, tried bunting in the eighth. But he ran into the ball and was declared out.

Holtzman had control problems in the early innings and got into his toughest jam in the third when Bradford walked and moved up on a wild pitch. He advanced to third on an infield out and then was stranded as Gary Nolan tapped in front of the plate and Hal McRae flew out.

In the top of the third, Holtzman scored the game's only run. He reached on Tony Perez's throwing error, moved up on an infield out and scored on Glenn Beckert's single.

The Chicago Cubs' Ken Holtzman leaps from the mound after throwing a no-hit game (1-0) against the Reds in Cincinnati Thursday night. It was the second no-hitter of Holtzman's career. (AP Wirephoto)

Pete Benson Defends 'Adler' Title Against Record Tourney Field

A record field of 148 will tee off Saturday in the 17th annual Adler Brau amateur golf tournament at Winagamie.

Pete Benson, twice-in-a-row winner of the tourney, will tee off at 9:36 a.m. Saturday as he begins pursuit of his third straight title.

The final 18 holes of the medal-play tourney are set for Sunday.

Benson fired a 2-under-par 70 on the final round in 1970 to win the crown, with a 143 total. Bud Muntner, last year's first-round leader (with a 72) is also among this year's entrants.

Other top challengers for Benson's title include Tom Hanby (Fox Cities champion), John Manier, Syl Bayer, Dennis Babb, Chuck Bayer and Gary Kriek.

Babb and Manier tied for third place behind Madison's Dave Lund in 1970.

Marion and Manawa Score 1-Run Wins, Clash Today

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — Marion fanned 12 and walked 6. Marion scored its lone run in the fourth with a single for Manawa and in the fifth when Pete Kristof took second on Malcom Bailey's advance to the sectional finals. Marion won 1-0.

Manawa scored when Wisconsins home Sexton, then stole second. Rapids' third baseman Jeff and third bases. Randy Hoffman walked and both runners scored when Antigo shortstop Rod Waldvogel booted a hit off the bat of Dave Squires.

Antigo rallied for two runs in the sixth with one out when Chuck Lahman tripled. Mike Kafka singled and Chuck Galenberg doubled. Hass then retired the next two batters to end the threat.

Marion and Manawa meet here this afternoon (3 p.m.) with the winner advancing to the state tournament.

Wisconsin Rapids 000 000 0-0 1-3
WP — Kevin Thiel, LP — Tom Nystrom.

Manawa 000 000 0-3 3-6
Antigo 000 002 0-2 2-1
WP — Dave Squires, LP — Dick Upton.

Behaving and Peter Kissel's Pass Catcher.

Royal JD was entered Thursday. The others were expected to be entered today.

Good Behaving, the triple stakes winner who missed the Derby and Preakness, and Jim French will run as a John Campo-trained entry. Good Behaving was a supplemental nominee for $5,000.

Eleven starters would give the 103rd running of the 1 1/2-mile Belmont a gross purse of $160,350, with $96,210 to the winner.

Post time for the race is about 4:35 p.m. CDT. Television coverage will be from 4-5 p.m. and radio coverage from 4:25-4:45 p.m., both by CBS.

Preserves Victory

Tom Nystrom, who was charged with the loss, gave up four hits, struck out seven and walked two. Wisconsin Rapids' lone hit was a two out double by Ron Pleet in the fourth.

Mayfield Signs Knick Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Kendall Mayfield, the New York Knicks' No. 3 draft choice, was signed by the National Basketball Association club Thursday.

The 6-foot-2 left-handed shooter ranked third among the college division individual scoring leaders last season and was top scorer for Tuskegee Institute, averaging 32.1 points a game in leading the school to a 20-6 record.

Canonero II Seeks Triple Crown

Expect 11 'Belmont' Entries

NEW YORK (AP) — Canonero II knows where the Belmont winner's circle is. Now all he has to do is get there Saturday and racing will have its ninth Triple Crown champion.

Trainer Juan Arias schooled Canonero II in the paddock Thursday and then led him to the winner's circle in front of the stands before the fifth race. He followed the same procedure before the colt won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

To win the Belmont Stakes and become the first to win the Derby, Preakness and Belmont since Citation in 1948, Canonero II will have to beat at least 10 other 3-year-olds. The most any of the eight Triple Crown

Booze Gadgets May Decline Council Relents, Will Permit Sale of Beer In LA's Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The portable radio that gurgled and was filled with precious liquid? the binoculars that sloshed may. And how many "binoculars" become aspects of yesterday can be looked through for at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum where they're gonna start selling beer.

When the city council voted to end the sport stadium's life-long drought Thursday, it drew cheers in some quarters—like the dorms at UCLA and Southern California—while a chorus of boos could be heard from bars and liquor stores in the neighborhood of the giant arena.

The Coliseum, the only major sports stadium in the United States which didn't sell beer, had been the target of the great mini-smuggling racket. On hot days, all sorts of gadgets would be brought into the place as ticket taker-guards carefully watched to see that no one brought in booze.

The guards failed.

Spanagel Drives 2 Inches From Cup, Wins Prize

Paul Tepper and Larrie Brazner tied for top honors in Riverview's Memorial Day blind bogey event.

Event carded a net 76.

Bob Spanagel won "closest to the pin" honors on the 120-yard par-3 second hole when he landed two inches from the cup.

John Gall, Ben Trevelyan and Bud Stach also won special event prizes.

Marilyn Olson won the flag, tournament, as he planted the flag five feet from the cup on the 19th hole. Harley Splitt was second.

The Ray Wuergler team took over the Men's Twilight League lead by scoring 42 points, for a total of 84. The Bernie Heselton team fell to second, three points behind.

Harry Brown, John Landis and Chuck Wegner won "low net in Class A honors," with 365. Dick Baker and Bob Spanagel were low in B, with 348. Wuergler (34) won in C, while Bill Meagher (37) won in D.

LONDON (AP) — Wimbledon tennis champion Margaret Court has returned to London from her defeat in the French Championships and will have specialized treatment for throat infection, it was learned.

Anglers Register Fish

Huge Northern Pike Entered in Contest

A huge northern pike and a lunker largemouth black bass head the list of recent entries in the annual Master Angler fishing contest sponsored by the Post-Crescent.

Robert Goetzman, 1301 Orchard Drive, Kaukauna, entered the northern, a monster 19-pound, 12-ounce fish which was caught at Chain Lake near Lakewood.

Goetzman was using a live chub for bait when the big fish hit. The northern is 3 pounds, 6 ounces larger than the pike that won the northern division of the Master Angler contest last year.

The largemouth bass which took over the lead in that category was entered by George Ashauer, 714 W. Fourth St., Appleton. George landed a 7-pound, 2-ounce largemouth while fishing at Clam Lake in Bayfield County. He was using a perch hook baited with a worm when the bass hit and put up a battle on ultra-light equipment.

Another largemouth that was entered in the contest was a 6-pound, 8-ounce fish caught by Jim School, 308 W. 12th St., Kaukauna. Jim's fish was caught at Munger Lake near Lakewood and hit on a night-crawler.

Two brown trout also qualified for the Master Angler contest in the inland waters category.

Mike Peterson, 1836 W. Marquette St., Appleton, landed a 3-pound, 7 ounce fish that was 19 1/2 inches long while fishing in the Plover River. Mike used a nightcrawler for bait.

Richard Niec, route 3, New London registered a 3-pound, 4-ounce brown trout which he caught in the Red River on worms.

Although the fish did not qualify for the minimum weight of 25 pounds, Chuck Riley Sr. of Appleton, landed a beautiful 19-pound silver muskie while fishing at Lake George in Northern Wisconsin. The muskie was 41 1/2 inches long and hit a Suick bait.

State League Opens Season

Menasha Will Play Sunday; Appleton to Make Debut June 20

The Wisconsin State Semi-Pro Baseball League will open its second season Saturday night when defending champion Green Bay invades Horicon and Madison plays at Sheboygan.

Menasha launches its campaign with a 2 p.m. Sunday game at Sheboygan.

Appleton, one of the three new teams in the league, won't play until June 20 when it visits Wausau.

Green Bay's Blue Ribbons, who won the title with an 8-2 record last year, are again favored this season.

Wausau and Beloit are the all-dads older than the Model-A new entries in addition to Appleton.

An all-star game will be played July 11 at Green Bay. The championship playoff is set for Aug. 22.

Islamic Name Preferred

'Kareem Abdul Jabbar, Please,' Asks Milwaukee Bucks' Alcindor

BY TOM SEPPY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lew Alcindor says he wants to be known from now on by his Islamic name Kareem Abdul Jabbar.

Jabbar, most valuable player in the National Basketball Association last season with the Milwaukee Bucks, admits he doesn't know if the public will accept his new name. But he says he will remind anyone who calls him by his given name.

Jabbar made his wishes known during a news conference Thursday at the State Department where it was confirmed that he, teammate Oscar Robertson and Coach Larry Costello will make a 25-day tour of Africa.

He said he took the name in the summer of 1968, after converting from Roman Catholicism to the Islamic faith, and first made it public in a two-part series in Sports Illustrated in 1969.

Has Been Quiet

"This was the first public information about it," he told a news conference Thursday.

'Model A' Cars to Have Day at WIR

Sunday a touch of the old days visits Wisconsin International Raceway, as members of the Nickle-A Club gather to race the restored Model A's.

Coupes, Roadsters, Tudors, Fordors, Town Sedans and Victorias are expected to race down the dragstrip in a special "A-Bone" Eliminator event.

Nickle-A Club Secretary, Murray Adams, guarantees head-to-head competition with these "flying flivers" as they will all be powered by the same stock Model-A engines, except for one surprise package roadster which will race one of the Modified Eliminator cars.

This event ties in with an early "Father's Day Special" as the all-dads older than the Model-A (over 40) will be admitted free with a WIR A-Day newspaper.

A 3-foot trophy will be awarded to the oldest father present.

Meets Jose Napoles Tonight

Backus Defends Welter Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Welterweight champion Billy Backus of Syracuse, N.Y., tonight faces Jose "Mantquilla" Napoles of Mexico City, the man he dethroned five months ago.

The 15-rounder could prove a bloodbath for both fighters.

More than 16,000 fans, a vast majority Latin-Americans rooting for Napoles, are expected to jam the plush Forum in suburban Inglewood as the 27-year-old Backus defends his 147-pound boxing title for the first time.

Napoles, 31, who fled to Mexico from his native Cuba in 1962, is a 2-1 favorite.

Promoter George Parnassus posted a $90,000 guarantee for Backus, by far his largest purses. Napoles gets $30,000.

The match will not be televised in this country. It will be seen on closed circuit in the Syracuse area and live on TV in Mexico City.

The first fight Dec. 3 in Syracuse was gory. Both fighters suffered eye cuts, Napoles apparently the worst. The referee halted the action in the fourth round and awarded the title to Backus.

Billy had been regarded as little more than a journeyman boxer and something of a setup for such a world class fighter as Napoles.

Napoles, from all accounts, was ahead on points through three rounds but Backus never backed off and his southpaw style seemed to bother the champion.

Napoles, with a record of 58-60, has stopped 41 opponents. He has been stopped twice on cuts, to Backus and in 1966 to L.C. Morgan.

Backus has never been knocked out. He claims the only time he has been off his feet was against Jerry Pelli in New Orleans in 1969.

Red Sox Call Up Luis Tiant

BOSTON (AP) — Luis Tiant, who has won 82 games in seven major league seasons topped by a 21-9 record with Cleveland in 1968, is the newest member of the Boston Red Sox pitching staff.

The 30-year-old right-hander was called up Thursday night from Louisville in the International League.

Right-hander Mike Nagy, who began the season in the starting rotation but was hit hard in several appearances and demoted to the bullpen where he saw little action, was optioned to Louisville at the same time.

Tiant fashioned a 3-1 record at Louisville.

hits, striking out seven and walking three.

Two Oshkosh errors and a passed ball, enabled Kaukauna to add four runs in the third inning, without benefit of a hit.

Singles by Vanderloop, Sprang and Warren Hacker and a double by Keith Donnermeyer gave the Ghosts two additional runs in the seventh.

Allen faced only 25 batters in three rounds but Backus never threatened, only twice being able to put runners in scoring position at second.

A leadoff single to Tom Pontzloff in the third and a 1-out double by Bob Manson in cuts, to Backus and in 1966 to the fifth were the only hits off L.C. Morgan.

Mark Woerful and Craig Basco knocked out. He claims the three hits, but East took good advantage of safeties, and five Gibralter errors, to cross the plate six times and score the victory.

East picked up its first run in the third inning. Jerry Vanderlinden walked with one out and scored when Woerful fielded Dan Heinritz's grounder and threw the ball into right field for a three base error.

A bases loaded walk to Lee Bauman and a 2-run single by Gary Voelz gave the Patriots three more runs in the fifth. A single by Bob Pearson, a sacrifice by Allen and an error added another run in the sixth.

Bauman one out triple in the seventh, followed by Voelz's sacrifice fly, gave East its final score.

Cub pitcher in history to hurl more than one no-hitter.

Elsewhere, Hank Aaron ripped a two-run pinch double to break a tie in the fourth inning and Atlanta topped Houston as Pat Jarvis halted a personal two o-season 11-game losing streak.

Jarvis worked six scoreless innings in relief and Aaron, out because of an ailing knee, delivered his clutch pinch hit in the fourth inning as the Braves battled from behind.

Steve Carlton became the National League's first 10-game winner, pitching St. Louis past Pittsburgh. He also contributed a two-run double to the Cardinals' attack and ex-Pirate Matty Alou ripped his first homer and a pair of singles to drive in three runs for the Cards.

Boston ended its five-game losing streak and moved back into first place in the American League East by edging New York.

Pitcher Ray Culp's ninth-inning single drove in the deciding run for the Red Sox, and reliever Bob Bolin stamped out a ninth-inning Yankee rally. Reggie Smith homered for Boston and Thurman Munson connected for New York.

Official Blames Weather Brewers' Attendance Down

MILWAUKEE (AP) — At this year, about 29,325 less than the club returns from an Eastern road trip and begins a long home stand.

"If we continue to lag in this period," Hackett said, "then you can't blame it on the weather."

"People will bundle up and come out here to a football game," but May's cool weather wasn't good baseball appeal, he said.

Home attendance is averaging 8,400 fans a game, compared with 1970's full-season average of 11,800 at the 45,700-seat stadium.

Advance ticket sales, he said, indicate the attendance pace should increase June 18, when

Bears Sign Moore, Harrison

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Moore and Jim Harrison, a pair of hard-hitting running backs from Missouri, have agreed to terms with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Moore, the Bears' No. 1 draft choice, and Harrison, No. 2, were both present at ceremonies in the Bear offices Thursday when personnel director Bobby Walston announced the signings.

Walston would not disclose terms except to say "they both signed multi-year contracts. It was no package deal, we negotiated with them one at a time."

Sets Records

Moore, 6-foot-11, 205 pounds, set two Missouri rushing records—2,306 yards on 453 career carries and 1,312 yards in a single season in 1968.

Joe Mullaney Fired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — year-old former Seattle University All-American underwent the NBA. Los Angeles extended surgery for a torn Achilles tendon New York to seven games before losing the title.

Washington has contacted him concerning the head coaching position, now vacant there, but of the volatile owner of the team, and that's one of the reasons Baylor's name has been mentioned

Elgin Baylor May Coach Lakers

There was widespread speculation today that veteran forward Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers would be named coach of the National Basketball Association team after Joe Mullaney was fired.

The Lakers, with a lengthy championship playoffs but never a title, announced Thursday Mullaney was being "removed" and offered him an executive position.

Mullaney, in a statement released through the club, said he "reluctantly declined" the offer to become an executive vice president as head of scouting.

He said he had "tendered my resignation to the club."

General manager Fred Schaus said he hoped to name a new coach shortly and the name of Baylor, the often injured 6-foot-5 star, began popping up. The club refused comment.

Series of Injuries

Baylor has had a series of alleged black-listing, which knee and groin injuries which would be an illegal restraint of have stalked him in recent years. Then, last Dec. 2, the

WIR Stock Event Conger Wins Feature

KAUKAUNA — Oshkosh's tight duel with Conger all the Dave Conger drove the fastest way and was nosed out by lap (16.58 seconds) and won the barely a car length

Hortonville's Larry Arnold finished third.

Appleton's Stan Riska won the trophy dash and also took the fourth heat (with Appleton's Bryce Spoehr and Neenah's Jerry Bonjian second and third respectively)

Erv Schumde of Oshkosh won the first heat and the 15-lap semi-feature. Neenah's Steve Morenz was second in the semi, with Van Dyne's Lee Zank third.

Brerline's Al Ewald was second in the first heat, with Zank third.

Kaukauna's Dan Vanden Heuvel took the second heat with Appleton's Barry Helms and Hortonville's Arnold taking the next two spots. Kleinschmidt won the third heat, with Conger second and Darbo's Ron Van Roy third.

BY ED SHEARER
ATLANTA (AP) — A two-month slump almost convinced young Californian John Miller to bypass the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

"I've been scoring so badly lately I just wanted to go home," he said. "The only reason I came here is because I like this course."

The 24-year-old blond enhanced his liking of the hilly, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course Thursday when he fired a sizzling seven-under-par 32-33-65 with a round that included an eagle, seven birdies and a pair of bogeys.

Aaron Shoots 71

Defending champion Tommy Aaron, whose only PGA tour victory in 10 years came in this tournament last year, shot a 71 over a quartet deadlocked at 67—Jack Nicklaus, Orville Moody, Ray Floyd and Dave Eichelberger.

It was Miller's best round on the tour since his closing 68 into the front bunker on the par three third and missed a 12-foot tie for second with Nicklaus in putt. Among his six birdies was the prestigious Masters at Augusta two months ago.

Miller, who started on the at 68—Lee Trevino, Bob Lunn, back nine, scored his eagle Gardner Dickinson, Jim Colthorpe on the 509-yard No 18—bert. Jim Dent, Rod Curl and his ninth hole—when he pitched Bob Barbarossa. South African in from 40 yards He birdied Gary Player and Masters the first and second holes with champion Charles Coody were putts of 30 and three feet and among eight players grouped at was on his way to equalling the 69.

Nicklaus Tied

It gave him a two-shot lead over a quartet deadlocked at 67—Jack Nicklaus, Orville Moody, Ray Floyd and Dave Eichelberger.

Pete Zingler Named Clints' Golf Captain

CLINTONVILLE — Pete Zingler, the only senior on the Clintonville High School golf team, has been chosen captain.

Junior Mike Yankee was picked as the most valuable player. Mike Hankins, also a junior, was named the most improved player.

A special Father's Day gift from under the Squiggly Roof.

Slow down Mom.
When you shop with us there's less need to run. The great Father's Day gift shorts that Dad will dig are right here. In the same place you grocery shop, or buy cosmetics, or run a thousand and one other errands.
And you can shop convenient hours 7 days a week. Buying Dad a present from us is like giving yourself the gift of time.

These walking shorts are 65% polyester, 35% cotton, and never need ironing.

With or without belt loops, in a choice of solids, plaids, stripes, or assorted solids:
red, blue, gold, green, brown, or navy.
Men's sizes 32 to 42. Made in Taiwan.

"Our earth is degenerate . . . children no longer obey their parents."

This plaintive observation was inscribed in stone by an Egyptian priest 6,000 years ago.

(For a large illustrated booklet containing this series in expanded form, and suitable for reading by both parents and young people, send $1 to "What You Can Do About Dangerous Drugs" in care of The Post-Crescent).

Every generation since then, parents have likely voiced similar complaints, objecting that youngsters are rude, unappreciative of their parents' contributions, or clucking over their tastes and styles in costumes and music—and hair.

Now parents have a new concern—why should so many youngsters be experimenting with if not adopting drugs that influence the mind?

There are no simple answers—it is a complex phenomenon. Various experts offer a variety of reasons and speculations, and a few suggest there are as many reasons for abusing them. Similarly, they think there are just as varied reasons why some people become alcoholics, or stuff themselves with food.

The reasons, or excuses, for drug abuses vary widely . . . a form of rebellion . . . one manifestation of the uncertain, unsettled adolescent seeking to learn "Who am I?" . . . a way of forgetting worries and hurts, and boredom and frustration . . . a means to hit back at parents . . . a way of experiencing love for others . . . a mental and emotional adventure . . . a key to escape a dismal reality . . . curiosity . . . pressure from one's peers and the need to go along and to belong and not to be "chicken" . . . doubts whether mankind has any future anyhow . . . the presence and voices of persuasive evangelists louting the attractions of different drugs.

Drug Obsessed

American society is drug-obsessed. In 1970, physicians and pharmacists turned out more than 225 million prescriptions for drugs that affect the mind—stimulants, tranquilizers, antidepressants, sedatives and others—compared with 167 million in 1965, by one estimate.

Adults were the main consumers of these chemicals. Drugs are advertised as answers to practically every problem or woe, capable of bringing quick cures. And when parents "have a medicine cabinet full of drugs, the kids can make a big thing of that," says one psychologist.

For some young people, the mind-influencing drugs seem to offer "a magical, effortless solution" to major problems of life, says Dr. Henry Brill of Pilgrim State Hospital, West Brentwood, N. Y.

Pressure Enormous

Pressures upon today's youths are enormous. They are caught up in an era of rapid social change which leaves adults bewildered and confused and puzzled as well.

Many youths have grown up in affluence, and the American dream of "giving one's children a better chance" doesn't make great sense to them, for a generation "that rarely imagines a society in which starvation, unemployment, or depression will be major possibilities," says Dr. Kenneth Keniston, Yale University psychologist.

Parents who survived the Great Depression of the 1930s, and World War II and challenges since then, often find this view hard to take or to reconcile. They worked hard for money, security and a better break for their children, who now don't seem to appreciate what had gone before in recent which fail. That can include drugs, sex, and school dropout.

human history, who seemingly have little chance for the good life of good education and good jobs and security, and sometimes contemptuous of the middle class white youth as "a far better bargain than malnutrition, rat bites, cold, loneliness and a rejecting, hostile society," says Dr. David Gottlieb of Pennsylvania State University.

It is astonishing, he says, that "peace" offered by drugs like heroin sought-escape through drugs.

an awful smell to my breath. Brushing doesn't help although I brush my teeth almost constantly. My friends say I have wash, tablet, and spray on the webbed feet. They never give me any trouble, but I would like to know if this is abnormal. I have only seen one other person with this. — D.G.

Nature plays odd tricks at times, and this is one that doctors see from time to time even if you haven't seen many cases.

This "webbing" is called syndactylism — learn to pronounce it so you can tell your friends: sin-DACK-till-ism.

Your feet are functional — they work all right. Therefore nothing needs to be done about the situation.

The same sort of "webbing" can occur with the fingers, and that's a different matter because you need individual movement with the fingers. In such cases the webbing may have to be cut, but not until X-rays have determined the proper alignment of the bones in the fingers. This is to insure proper movement and also best appearance.

To get back to your feet, forget about it. You don't need anything done.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have and grit my teeth something fierce at night. My mother says she can even hear it at the other end of the house when I really get started.

I've had this habit as long as I can remember, but I don't know how to stop doing it because I'm asleep and don't even know it. I don't do it every night. — K.A.

This is called bruxism, a matter of tension. On the nights you don't grit your teeth, you probably are more relaxed or in a deeper sleep. It isn't physically harmful, but it does seem like a waste of energy, doesn't it?

One possibility is that you may have a faulty dental "bite." That is, your teeth don't meet exactly the way they should. You might have the dentist check this at your next visit.

Unfortunately, I don't know what else you can do to break the habit, but it may subside as you grow older, or you may learn to be more relaxed about life in general.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a cure for dandruff? I have had it five years and used all of the medicated shampoos on the market. All they do is relieve the itching for a while. — Mrs. D.M.

Such shampoos are adequate for most dandruff; when they don't work, sooner you admit that you have a scalp condition and go to a dermatologist (skin specialist) the better.

Your Money's Worth Clerical Inefficiencies Cost Business Billions

BY SYLVIA PORTER

"The reason I beat the Austrians," said Napoleon long ago, "is that they did not know the value of five minutes."

"The reason offices across the nation are overloaded, overstuffed and overpriced," cleverly elaborates Richard L. Ganzi, president of the management consulting firm of Paul B. Mulligan & Co., "is that their top executives equate the eight-hour day with eight hours of work." And Ganzi adds:

"This error in time-judgement is one of the most costly and common we come across."

Porter

Right now, U. S. workers are far more productive than they've been in a long, long time. Just-published Labor Department figures show productivity spurred by an annual rate of 5.3 per cent in the auto strike-depressed fourth 1970 quarter and well above the long-term average.

This productivity rise is one great factor operating to neutralize the economic impact of skyrocketing wages.

Must Increase

Continued productivity gains are absolutely imperative if our economy is to keep recovering from the 1969-70 recession and if we ever are to get on top of runaway inflation.

It is against this background that I submit work studies by Mulligan — one of the world's largest firms specializing exclusively in clerical cost reduction—showing that clerical inefficiency in the U. S. costs a staggering $18 billion a year. And, says Ganzi, this is a conservative figure. "Most companies are overstaffed in the clerical department by a dreadful 30 per cent."

In the past 10 years, while the U. S. labor force has grown 20.5 per cent, clerical employees have expanded by 44.3 per cent and clerical payrolls, 114 per cent. The increases reflect our exploding paperwork society and the expansion in services—which usually employ many more clerks than industries. At the same time, Ganzi declares, "There has been absolutely no improvement in office worker productivity," and almost surely, there has been a decline. Even in companies which realize the inefficiency of their clerical staffs, though, there is a general feeling of helplessness. This feeling, Ganzi argues, is unjustified, and he has worked out several basic rules which I'm sure you can apply in your own office.

(1) Give your supervisors more control of clerical workers. A general but flexible rule of thumb is 12 clerks to one supervisor. Consolidate similar departments under one supervisor.

(2) Give special special treatment to high-skill functions. A bookkeeping department, for instance, requires less supervisory attention than a mail room.

Upgrade Supervisors

(3) Upgrade your supervisory level. "The main trouble with so-called working supervisors is that most neither think nor act as managers." Equip your supervisors with the training and skills to permit them to identify with management. Include them in corporate planning and decisionmaking sessions. Work out realistic work standards so they have the tools they need to function efficiently.

(4) Don't expect instant big-money gains from a clerical cost control program. "Primary savings in upgraded supervision, payroll trimming and improved productivity could take a year or more."

(5) Under no circumstances push the panic button with one-shot, hit-or-miss firings. "Overstaffing can be taken care of by normal turnover or through cross training to other growing departments." Arbitrary cut-backs can easily increase inefficiency.

Surely, you can translate some of Ganzi's guides in terms of your own office. Whatever you achieve, it will help you maintain a high rate of pay increases, keep prices in line and protect your profit margins. You, your employees — and the rest of us—all again.

COG Chief Gets Thanks for Role

Eugene Franchett, executive director of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) has been thanked for his role in the establishment of criminal justice planning in this region.

Daniel Van De Hey, regional director of the East Central Region for criminal justice planning, wrote Kaukauna Mayor Gilbert Anderson, COG chairman, that Franchett was "instrumental in obtaining one of the first law enforcement planning grants, in March of 1969, in the State of Wisconsin."

Franchett has announced he will resign from COG later this month to become executive director of the newly formed metropolitan study committee at Milwaukee.

Dairy Cow State Animal?

'Better Than Returnable Bottles'

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Assembly Agriculture Committee was urged Wednesday to pass a bill designating the dairy cow the state domestic animal.

"This crazy animal produces more income for our state than anything else I know of," Democratic Rep. Robert Thompson of Poynette said. "Why, it's even better than returnable bottles."

"Look at what the dairy cow goes through in Wisconsin," Thompson, one of the bill's authors, continued. "We limit its romantic life, we completely curtail its sex life, we sell it for $5 a hundred, and after it is slaughtered, we wear its hide on our feet."

"Maybe that's why it has such a long face," chairman David O'Malley, D-Waunakee, commented.

Another committee member added: "Did you ever hear the saying that the cow is the foster mother of the world? I think it's true."

"Just wait a minute now," Rep. Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, interjected. "In this age of men's liberation, what consideration are you giving to the bull?"

Democratic Rep. Ed Jackamonis of Waukesha, an author of the proposal, termed it a public relations bill that would give the dairy industry added visibility and stature.

"The cow is already a symbol of Wisconsin," Jackamonis said. "What more appropriate time is there than June dairy month to make the designation official?"

"As long as our state license plates say 'America's Dairyland,' I think we should carry through and help the industry along by passing the bill," he said.

"Perhaps," Rep. Frederick Schroeder, R-West Bend, said, "We could add an amendment to put a cow on our license plates."

"Anyone who would come out against this bill must be against babies and motherhood too," Harry Laszewski, representing Tri-State Region Associated Milk Producers Inc. said.

If the measure passes the legislature, the cow would join the robin, the muskellunge, the wood violet, the sugar maple, the white-tailed deer, the badger, the lead miner and the Great Lakes sailor as symbols of the state.

Fox Valley Leads State In Barn Fires

Reason Undetermined.

Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Farms in four Fox Valley Counties lead the state in barn fires. "You've got three times as many fires as you ought to have," said Prof. H. D. Bruhn, of the University of Wisconsin department of agricultural engineering.

Bruhn has forecast that from 800 to 1,000 barn fires will occur in the state next year, if trends continue the Fox Valley will experience more than its share.

Outagamie, Waupaca, Brown and Shawano Counties were the four worst counties for fires in the state last year. They had 27.2 per cent of the barn fires although farms in the counties produced only 9.27 per cent of the state's hay supply.

Cause Unexplained

Bruhn has not determined why the region has a bad fire record. "We haven't been able to pin that down yet."

Records of 1970 fires now are being analyzed by Bruhn. The research is conducted under an industrial grant provided by 10 Wisconsin insurance companies.

In 1970 Shawano County had 11 barn fires, Brown 10, Outagamie 6 and Waupaca 4.

Half of the barn fires in 1971 will be caused by lightning if trends continue. Such fires often are minor and average $1,000 in loss. "Many times a lightning fire just amounts to a little of the wiring being knocked down," he said.

Wiring A Danger

Defective wiring may cause from 200 to 300 barns to burn. Costs rise here to from $8,000 to $9,000 average per fire.

Wiring poses a real danger on many farms where it is

USDA Defends Growth Hormone

WASHINGTON — The United States Agriculture Department has come to the defense of a growth stimulating hormone, diethylstilbesterol, (DES), fed to cattle, saying hormone residues are not present in meat.

Use of the hormone was attacked recently by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. Proxmire said the hormone residue presented a danger of causing cancer.

He charged that voluntary controls on beef producers are not sufficient and asked that the chemical be banned.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng said, however, that residues are not present in meat sold to consumers. "USDA's test showed that no red meat containing detectable levels of DES residues have reached the consumer."

New Testing

Lyng said the federal Meat and Poultry Inspection program of the Consumer and Marketing Service has been expanded as a broader, statistically designed survey.

The new study will involve 6,000 meat animal samples, he said.

Lyng emphasized that no residues of (DES) were found in any samples checked in 1971. Residues were found in the liver of one animal during 1970 although no detectable residue was found in the muscle tissue of that animal.

"Recent reports that 100,000 to 150,000 meat animals containing DES residues may have been marketed last year are based on the invalid assumption that the few animals tested then were a cross-section of all meat animals marketed in the United States. They were not. Most of them were suspect to start with — picked from herds where we thought the producers might not have followed the Food and Drug Administration's requirements to withdraw the drug 48 hours before slaughter," he said.

New test methods will increase efficiency and accuracy of federal examinations, he said. The new procedure cuts analysis time from two weeks to less than two hours.

The program was developed by laboratory personnel of the Meat and Poultry Inspection Program, the pharmaceutical industry and Food and Drug Administration.

Lyng also praised a voluntary certification plan being started by the livestock industry to guarantee that drugs have been properly withdrawn from animals.

Farms May Decline by 1980 While Herd Size Climbs

The number of Wisconsin dairy farms may shrink from the nearly 60,000 of the present to between 35,000 and 40,000 by 1980, according to Frank Groves, University of Wisconsin agricultural economist.

Groves, in an extension service "staff paper," said the number of cow herds will decline but predicted increased herd size. "The average size herd will increase to at least 50 cows."

National milk production will dip but Wisconsin will remain a leader in output along with New York, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and California.

Groves is optimistic about attracting young men to farming. "The farmers that will account for the greatest share of production in the next 10 years are younger (than the average age). They are better educated, more sophisticated and better able to profitably adapt and use modern production, business management and marketing techniques, than the preceding generation."

Farmers will turn out more production per hour, possibly doubling output in the next decade. New techniques will enable farmers to boost production per acre.

The "new" farmers will be better paid. Farmers simply will get a larger slice of the profits because their operations will be bigger.

By 1980 the return to labor and management will be $12,500, estimated Groves. In 1968 the return was $7,097. Increasing costs may eat up much of the added money, however, so farmers must boost the size of their farms to gain profits.

Gradually more farmers may use loose housing systems instead of traditional stanchions. Fewer cows will be fed on pasture and stored feeding systems will increase. Use of liquid and stored manure disposal systems will increase, said Groves.

Processing plants also will undergo changes as the decade advances. "The number of plants will be down and the size of those remaining will increase." Automated equipment will be used increasingly to reduce labor costs, said Groves.

Farm Cooperatives
Although dairy cooperatives may drop in number they will process more milk than ever before. Large retailers and cooperatives may join in merchandising ventures, said Groves.

Additional cooperatives may merge in the future, he predicted.

Farmers are increasingly aware of consumer desires and marketing may be integrated with production in the future.

Consumer tastes may govern production and consumption of high fat products, such as butter, fluid milk and cream probably will skid while skim milk and low fat milk use will increase.

Market Status
Because imitation products are invading traditional dairy markets farmers may have to promote products. "In order to protect their traditional markets farmers will have to carry on an increasing share of the expenditures for advertising and research."

Increasing numbers of Wisconsin dairymen are switching from production of manufacturing milk to Grade A milk production. Most of the milk will be Grade A by 1980, said Groves. The job of finding markets for the new Grade A milk without disrupting markets may be a "problem for all parts of the industry."

The role of federal milk marketing orders also may change as they price increasing proportions of the milk supply. "By 1980 there will be only several large regional orders," said Groves.

Retailers Powerful
Chain stores and buying groups also will increase in power and assume an increasingly important place in milk marketing procedures as retailers decide which dairy products will be stocked, said Groves.

As chain operations increase their market research may lead to development of new dairy products to cater to consumer desires.

Coordinated Efforts Vital To Control of Apple Pests

BY V. W. PEROUTKY

Winnebago County
Agricultural Agent

OSHKOSH — During spring, many individuals ask what to spray to insure good apples. There is no simple formula for an answer. Home orchard growers probably will meet with disappointment if an unkempt orchard is within a block's distance despite attempts at insect management.

Two apple pests are up-pest in Oshkosh. The first is scab, a fungus which attacks leaves and fruit. It originates from last year's diseased leaves in grass and fence rows. Warm moist weather accelerates ripening spores to infect new apple leaves. Flowering crabs are very susceptible. There are many other apple pests, but apple maggot is the number two pest.

Apple maggot causes brown streaks in apples, the streak is bacterial action following the maggot. The mature maggot drops from the apple to the soil, remains there over winter and emerges from July 1 to September. It lays eggs only in apples.

Scab on leaves and fruit resembles a thickened skin, like a scab injury of a burn. It's olive green in color at first, then turns black.

Prevention measures for maggot require a program in the entire neighborhood. Spraying may kill insects present, but today's sprays carry little residual protection.

After petal fall, relatively effective pesticides for the maggot fly adult are diazinon, or Malathion or Sevin. Sevin is most effective but very safe as its effect lasts only an hour or two.

Angelica Dairyman Works for Co-ops

ANGELICA — A young Shawano County farmer is actively shaping the services agricultural cooperatives will be offering farmers in Wisconsin during the coming decades. At the age of 24, Ken Holewinski, route 2, Pulaski, owns and operates a 180-acre dairy farm near here. He is serving his second year as a director and secretary of the board for the Shawano County Farmco Cooperative. This is also his second year as a director of the Shawano County Farm Bureau and an alternate on the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee.

And there's a new hired man waiting in the wings to help in the years ahead. His wife recently gave birth to their first child, Douglas Allen.

Dairy Experience
Holewinski has a strong background in dairying, having farmed in partnership with his father, John, on the family farm since high school. He also succeeded his father on the cooperative board, and purchased the farm from him two years ago.

His work as a co-op director has aided his farming, said Holewinski. "It has helped me economize better in my operation, particularly in dairy feeding program. I checked the protein level in my hay and then balanced my feeding program around it. It saved me money," he said.

Holewinski carries 75 of Holstein dairy cattle on his farm, about 40 of them are in a free stall lot housed in a free stall lot shed near the barn. He raised all his replacement stock.

His herd's butterfat average increased from 485 to 500 pounds in the past two years. "Working for the co-ops has been interesting in many ways. You learn about products and programs, get to meet a lot of farmers and learn how they operate. It keeps you thinking ahead," said.

Nun Aids Common Market?

seeking the advice of Sister Thomas More.

It started three years ago when she delivered a speech before the Institute for Agriculture at Purdue University. The speech was printed with the proceedings of the Institute and read by Jacque van Lierde, an agricultural economist in Brussels.

He forwarded a letter to Sister Thomas More and for the past three years they have corresponded discussing agricultural problems.

Now van Lierde is embroiled in debate among agricultural economists concerning whether England should be let into the Common Market. He has turned to Sister Thomas More for advice concerning the growth of agricultural cooperatives in the Common Market.

European Conditions

"We are working hard here; things look like as if the Common Market will be enlarged in the near future," he said in a recent letter.

Agricultural problems in Europe often closely parallel those of the United States, according to Sister Thomas More.

Now in the United States agriculture is poorly organized, she said. Mergers and federations are taking place as organizations unify and experiences in the United States may provide useful answers for Common Market problems.

Mergers Pondered

"Under what conditions should one go over to merger and under which one to federation of cooperatives or other associations?" asked van Lierde.

Unification of agriculture will bring growth, Sister Thomas More often has advocated federated alliances of organizations in the past.

Van Lierde also asked if cooperatives should form conglomerates representing many types of producers or if they should "stick to one or two agricultural products."

Commodity Representation

Sister Thomas More said organizations should support a single commodity group at least until they have developed a leadership and secured a strong position in the marketplace. "Commodities should be separated until the producers of that commodity feel strong."

The role of government in agriculture also is being examined by van Lierde. "Should the cooperation between agricultural associations and industrial enterprises, in the form of joint-ventures, be stimulated by government or not?"

Sister Thomas More said while government agencies often may provide a helping hand to fledgling cooperatives federal influence should not be permitted to grow.

"I don't think government should be a partner."

Canadian Answer

She praised a 1969 proposal of the Province of Ontario in Canada. The framework, entitled "Challenge of Abundance," established a Food Supply Agency as the marketing arm of agriculture and a General Farm Organization, as the policy-making body for farmers.

The Farm Supply Agency retained autonomy for its marketing service but all farm organizations in the province could gather under the General Farm Organization banner to initiate changes through governmental policy.

Response Urged

The questions asked by van Lierde offer Wisconsin farmers a chance to examine their own goals, said Sister Thomas More. She hopes farmers will send their answers to his questions to her at Holy Family College.

In the meantime she is preparing to attack the "separatism" of farmers June 24 in a speech before the American Rice Growers Convention in Lafayette, La.

"I'm still harping on this unity thing," she said.

A five-year-old Holstein on the Kenneth Wagner farm, Charlestown, led dairy production during April in Calumet County, according to Dairy Herd Improvement Association statistics.

The cow produced 19,870 pounds of milk and 704 pounds of butterfat to take the lead.

Other high producing five-year-olds were owned by Gerald Keuler, route 2, Chilton, 15,700 milk and 694 butterfat; Edward Mirsberger, route 2, Hilbert, 15,730 milk and 685 butterfat; Donald Schell, route 1, Brillion, 17,670 milk and 659 butterfat; Herman Danes, route 1, Chilton, 19,430 milk and 653 butterfat.

High Output

Greg Geiser, route 1, Chilton, listed a Holstein which topped production in the four-year-old class. The cow produced 18,090 milk and 684 butterfat. Other four-year-olds in the honor roster were, Leonard Woelfel, route 1, Hilbert; 19,510 milk and 643 butterfat; Oscar Hedrich Jr., route 1, Brillion, 15,750 milk and 611 butterfat; Edward Mirsberger, 15,730 milk and 602 butterfat.

Ruffing Brothers, route 1, Hilbert, had the top three-year-old with a record of 15,770 milk and 687 butterfat. Others were William Scholz, route 1, Hilbert, 21,670 milk and 642 butterfat; Henry Juckem, route 1, Hilbert; 14,780 milk and 601 butterfat; Huebner Brothers, route 1, Brillion, 17,570 milk and 557 butterfat.

The leading two-year-old producer was from the Donald Schnell farm and listed 13,450 milk and 590 butterfat. Others were owned by Leonard Woelfel, 16,030 milk and 575 butterfat; Henry Juckem, 12,630 milk and 561 butterfat.

Production Lauded

John Schmidt, route 1, Brillion, 15,480 milk and 55

butterfat; Alfred Keuler, route 2, Kiel, 14,730 milk and 517 butterfat; Ralpheal Geiger, route 1, Brillion, 13,450 milk and 517 butterfat; Joseph Juckem Jr., route 1, Chilton, 12,220 milk and 503 butterfat; Frank Hartman, route 2, New Holstein, 16,150 milk and 502 butterfat.

In colored breeds Robert Stanelle, route 1, Brillion, listed a two-year-old Guernsey with 9,990 milk and 463 butterfat. Killsnake Creek Farm had the top four-year-old with 15,210 milk and 676 butterfat.

There now are 214 herds on production testing in Calumet County, according to Orrin Meyer, Calumet County agricultural agent.

The bull, Applejack 010, started at the station at 550 pounds and weighed 1,185 pounds at the end of the 168-day test.

The bull's average daily gain was 3.78 pounds and pounds weight per day of gain 3.28 pounds. This was the first year testing was conducted at the Platteville station. Previously facilities at Hancock had been used.

Last year Charolais from the farm took the Grand Champion Male and Grand Champion Female titles at the Wisconsin State Fair.

Coordinated Efforts Vital To Control of Apple Pests

BY V. W. PEROUTKY

Agricultural Agent

OSHKOSH — During spring, many individuals ask what to spray to insure good apples. There is no simple formula for an answer. Home orchard growers probably will meet with disappointment if an unkempt orchard is within a block's distance despite attempts at insect management.

Two apple pests are upmost in Oshkosh. The first is scab, a fungus which attacks leaves and fruit. It originates from last year's diseased leaves in grass and fence rows. Warm moist weather accelerates ripening spores to infect new apple leaves. Flowering crabs are very susceptible. There are many other apple pests, but apple maggot is the number two pest.

Apple maggot causes brown streaks in apples, the streak is bacterial action following the maggot. The mature maggot drops from the apple to the soil, remains there over winter and emerges from July 1 to September. It lays eggs only in apples.

Scab on leaves and fruit resembles a thickened skin, like a scab injury of a burn. It's olive green in color at first, then turns black.

Prevention measures for maggot require a program in the entire neighborhood. Spraying may kill insects present, but today's sprays carry little residual protection.

After petal fall, relatively effective pesticides for the maggot fly adult are diazinon, or Malathion or Sevin. Sevin is most effective but very safe as its effect lasts only an hour or two.

Manitowoc Nun Aids Common Market?

A nun may indirectly influence the direction of agriculture in the Common Market.

Sister Thomas More, of Holy Family College, Manitowoc long has been an outspoken proponent of greater unity among farmers.

Sister Thomas More

She started a crusade as chairman of the social science department at the college which has taken her through much of the United States to speak before farm groups.

Now an agricultural economist in the Common Market is

Angelica Dairyman Works for Co-ops

ANGELICA — A young Shawano County farmer is actively shaping the services agricultural cooperatives will be offering farmers in Wisconsin during the coming decades. At the age of 24, Ken Holewinski, route 2, Pulaski, owns and operates a 180-acre dairy farm near here. He is serving his second year as a director and secretary of the board for the Shawano County Farmco Cooperative. This is also his second year as a director of the Shawano County Farm Bureau and an alternate on the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee.

And there's a new hired man waiting in the wings to help in the years ahead. His wife recently gave birth to their first child, Douglas Allen.

Dairy Experience

Holewinski has a strong background in dairying, having farmed in partnership with his father, John, on the family farm since high school. He also succeeded his father on the cooperative board, and purchased the farm from him two years ago.

His work as a co-op director has aided his farming, said Holewinski. "It has helped me economize better in my farm operation, particularly in my dairy feeding program. I checked the protein level in my hay and then balanced my feeding program around it. It saved me money," he said.

Holewinski carries 75 head of Holstein dairy cattle on his farm, about 40 of them milking. The young stock are housed in a free stall loafing shed near the barn. He raises all his replacement stock.

His herd's butterfat average increased from 485 to 539 pounds in the past two years.

"Working for the co-op has been interesting in many ways. You learn about new products and programs, get to meet a lot of farmers and learn how they operate. It keeps you thinking ahead," he said.

seeking the advice of Sister Thomas More.

It started three years ago when she delivered a speech before the Institute for Agriculture at Purdue University. The speech was printed with the proceedings of the Institute and read by Jacque van Lierde, an agricultural economist in Brussels.

He forwarded a letter to Sister Thomas More and for the past three years they have corresponded discussing agricultural problems.

Now van Lierde is embroiled in debate among agricultural economists concerning whether England should be let into the Common Market. He has turned to Sister Thomas More for advice concerning the growth of agricultural cooperatives in the Common Market.

European Conditions

"We are working hard here; things look like as if the Common Market will be enlarged in the near future," he said in a recent letter.

Agricultural problems in Europe often closely parallel those of the United States, according to Sister Thomas More.

Now in the United States agriculture is poorly organized, she said. Mergers and federations are taking place as organizations unify and experiences in the United States may provide useful answers for Common Market problems.

Mergers Pondered

"Under what conditions should one go over to merger and under which one to federation of cooperatives or other associations?" asked van Lierde.

Unification of agriculture will bring growth, Sister Thomas More often has advocated federated alliances of organizations in the past.

Van Lierde also asked if cooperatives should form conglomerates representing many types of producers or if they should "stick to one or two agricultural products."

Commodity Representation

Sister Thomas More said organizations should support a single commodity group at least until they have developed a leadership and secured a strong position in the marketplace. "Commodities should be separated until the producers of that commodity feel strong."

The role of government in agriculture also is being examined by van Lierde. "Should the cooperation between agricultural associations and industrial enterprises, in the form of joint-ventures, be stimulated by government or not?"

Sister Thomas More said while government agencies often may provide a helping hand to fledgling cooperatives federal influence should not be permitted to grow.

"I don't think government should be a partner."

Canadian Answer

She praised a 1969 proposal of the Province of Ontario in Canada. The framework, entitled "Challenge of Abundance," established a Food Supply Agency as the marketing arm of agriculture and a General Farm Organization, as the policy-making body for farmers.

The Farm Supply Agency retained autonomy for its marketing service but all farm organizations in the province could gather under the General Farm Organization banner to initiate changes through governmental policy.

Response Urged

The questions asked by van Lierde offer Wisconsin farmers a chance to examine their own goals, said Sister Thomas More. She hopes farmers will send their answers to his questions to her at Holy Family College.

In the meantime she is preparing to attack the "separatism" of farmers June 24 in a speech before the American Rice Growers Convention in Lafayette, La.

"I'm still harping on this unity thing," she said.

Pesticide Research Sags After Rise During 1960's

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study sponsored by the chemical industry shows that research and development of new pesticides is slowing down after rising by one-third during the late 1960s.

The study was announced by the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, a trade group. Officials said the study covered 33 member companies accounting for 81 per cent of the nation's pesticide sales.

During a three-year period from 1967 to 1970, expenditures by the 33 firms for pesticide research and development increased from $52.4 million per year to $69.9 million in 1970.

This year, according to the association, the total outlay will be about $72 million.

No specific reasons were given in the study report for the slowdown although "inflationary pressures" were cited.

Other chemical company spokesmen have said, however, that increasing concern about the environment and uncertainties over federal regulations have been a factor in the reduction.

"We hope that it does not signal a downturn in industry efforts to research and develop new pesticide products, although this could be a part of the story, also," the NAC said.

"Nevertheless, the conclusion can be reached from a review of these figures that pesticide research and development activities among participating companies has increased substantially in recent years and has plateaued in 1971," the association said.

Based on 1969 records, the report said pesticide industry sales totaled $851 million. Of that, the companies participating in the study accounted for $693 million.

Wisconsin Joins Test to Halt Flow From Country

Wisconsin has been named as one of five test states where federal agencies are coordinating attempts to stop the flow of people from rural areas to cities.

The plan is aimed at slicing red tape in getting technical aid and funding to help rural counties, according to Robert C. Clark, University of Wisconsin extension resource specialist.

Clark is state coordinator of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) program which has been dubbed Rural Development Demonstration Program. The program is being carried out in 19 western Wisconsin counties.

Other states participating are Oregon, Oklahoma, North Carolina and Ohio.

The Farmers Home Administration, University Extension Service, Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Farmer Cooperative Service, Rural Electrification Administration, Economic Research Service and other USDA agencies will coordinate efforts on the plan.

The plan, if successful, will alter the life of rural residents, "so they don't feel that they have to migrate," said Clark.

Citizen rural development councils will be responsible for pin-pointing rural problems, according to Clark. The councils were largely originated with guidance of Henry Ahlgren, University of Wisconsin extension chancellor.

Ahlgren now is undersecretary of agriculture in charge of rural development.

Citizens will guide rural programs under the test effort. Rural councils, may include leaders in industry, business, health, consumer interest and other fields.

After citizen councils identify needs, agencies will be coordinated to provide technical aid and pave the way for financial assistance.

"After those needs are identified, then our big job is for long-range county and regional planning," said Clark.

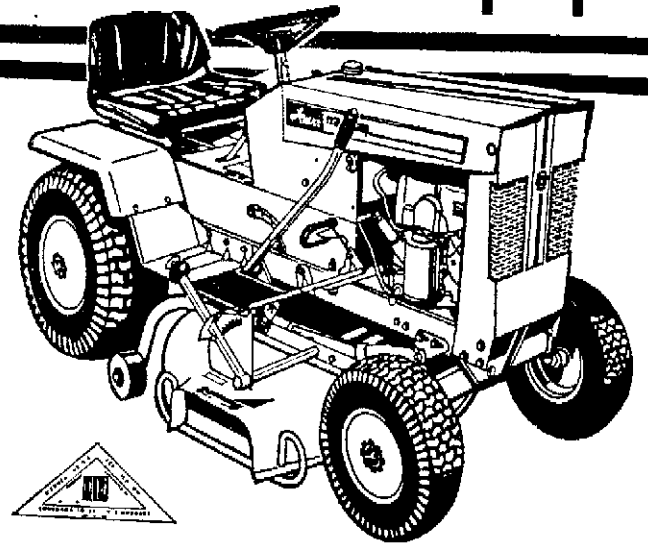

He said the Northwest Regional Planning Commission will assist citizen groups. Gov. Patrick Lucey recently approved formation of a West-Central Regional Planning Commission which also will aid county planning.

"Most of the specific action has to be taken community by community," said Clark. Often, however, the citizen-committee structure will aid in multi-county planning efforts.

Herbicide Can Rid Corn of Quackgrass

BY JOE L. WALKER

Waupaca County Agriculture Agent

WAUPACA — The old hay maker was a most welcome sight last week and with a few warm sunny days the balance of corn will be planted and that anemic looking corn in some fields will take on a healthy look. The healthiest looking plants, in many fields, were quackgrass.

Heavy grass infestations, can be sprayed now with two pounds of atrazine plus a gallon of crop oil per acre. This should burn down the weeds aiding the growth of corn plants.

There is no question that the rains held up corn planting in Waupaca County but they did perk up the alfalfa and it grew about eight to ten inches in the past ten days.

Charles Timm in the Town of Royalton, has built a new pole shed for his dairy-beef operation. Timm uses the old barn and with the new shed he can handle two different size groups at one time. He uses a fence line feeder and distributes silage and grain in the bunk with a self unloading wagon. Thus this unit is quite flexible and also is well mechanized.

Discovery of Blight Causes Wrangle Within USDA

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dispute is raging inside the Agriculture Department over how to write the weekly corn blight reports which were inaugurated earlier this month to dispense "consistent and responsible" information about the disease in this year's crop.

The first report was issued May 5. The May 26 report was the first in which confirmed cases of "Race T" blight were reported in major corn areas, one in Illinois and another in Kentucky.

As originally planned, the reports were to be issued each Wednesday at about 3 p.m. EDT after the close of grain markets. The after-market precaution is a standard procedure by USDA in issuing "sensitive" reports which could result in sudden market reactions.

Officials Wrangle

On May 26, however, the two-page report was held up nearly two and a half hours past the deadline while officials argued over what to say in it.

The disagreement reportedly centered on whether to say anything at all about the two confirmed cases of Race T blight, the most destructive kind, although the Illinois outbreak had been reported earlier in the week by state officials.

After the decision was made to pinpoint the two confirmed blight outbreaks in the report, other differences arose on how to write the announcement.

A compromise was reached whereby the language of the report, couched in the most careful bureaucratic terms, would be aimed at downplaying the two blight outbreaks. The heading on the news release read: "Illinois report of Race T blight information confined to only one-half acre."

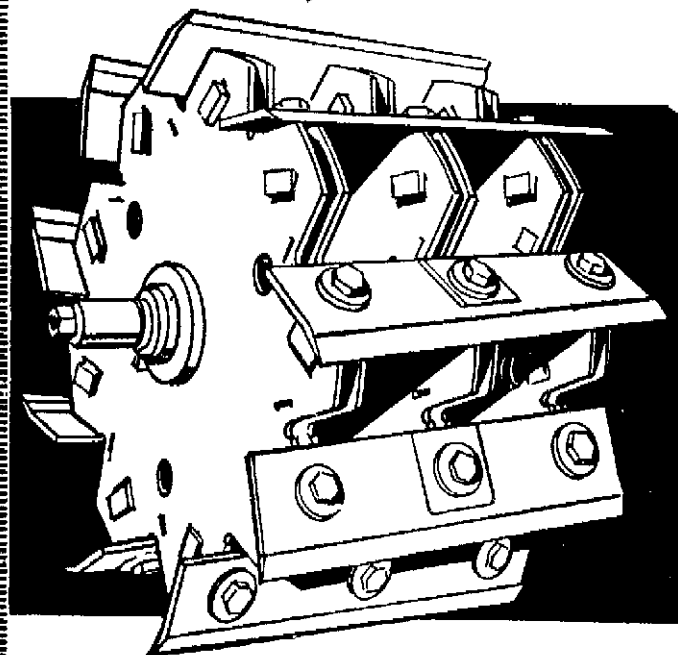

The text went on to say that the Illinois outbreak apparently resulted from infected old-crop corn being shelled nearby.

The official report did not name the Illinois county, but a spokesman told a reporter when asked that it was St. Clair.

As for the Kentucky infestation, the report said only that it was in Todd County.

Agriculture Department officials in charge of the new Corn Blight Information Center are extremely worried over the possibility of contributing unnecessarily to alarm over corn blight in this year's crop.

Mink Raisers Name Officers At Plymouth

An Oshkosh man, Tony Pertmer, has been named president of the Kettle Moraine Mink Breeders Association. Pertmer will preside Tuesday when the association meets at Turner's Hall, Plymouth.

Other officers named recently were, Calvin Voight, Lomira, vice president; Glenroy Koeppen, St. Nazianz, secretary; Matt Winkel, Elkhart Lake, treasurer; and Melvin Blanke, Plymouth, an ex officio officer.

Directors at large are, Chet Bahr, Sheboygan; Carl Weichman, Oshkosh; Harold Braatz, Eden; Fred Pupeter, Oshkosh; Robert Zimbal, Sheboygan.

material is in pretty bad shape," said Bruhn.

Skimpy wiring often is overworked by modern farm operations adding to the danger. Many barns, said Bruhn, were wired simply for lighting but now the outmoded wires are carrying power for milking machines, coolers, ventilating fans, clippers, barn cleaners and feeding equipment. "They're just simply overloading the wiring systems."

Hay Fires

The most expensive fires, however, are caused by spontaneous combustion of hay. Bruhn said these average from $14,000 to $15,000 each. He predicts that 100 such fires will occur in 1971.

High losses may be recorded because barns with large mows seem more prone to fires. Farmers with large mows often make hay faster and poorly cured hay may be stored, he said. Small mows also dissipate heat faster reducing dangers.

Silo fires also are expected by Bruhn. Such fires are caused when leaks in silos admit oxygen and silage is stored at less than 40 per cent moisture levels.

Although data is incomplete Bruhn said the number of silo fires may increase simply because more farmers are storing hay silage.

As part of the study he has created a fire hazard index. According to the index baled hay represents a hazard of .43; long hay .87; chopped hay 4.8 and hay silage .81.

"You're about 10 times as apt to have a fire in chopped hay as in baled hay," he said.

Chopped hay tends to heat much worse than baled hay partly because cracks between bales permit ventilation which cools the bales.

Moisture Level

Hay stored in barns should be less than 30 per cent moisture to be safe from fire. "Between 30 and 40 per cent moisture is the place where spontaneous combustion is apt to occur," said Bruhn.

Farmers covering overly wet hay with dry, well-cured hay provide ideal conditions for fires to start.

Time for a Summit Meeting?

Almost seven years ago United Nations Secretary General U Thant proposed a five-power summit meeting aimed at discussions on ways to limit the expansion of nuclear armaments.

Nothing came of the proposal. The United States and the Soviet Union had already agreed to a limited test ban treaty. Great Britain was doing no testing or adding to its small supply of nuclear devices. But both France and China were obviously not interested since both were in the process of building up nuclear information and capability to demonstrate their national prestige and defiance of American or Russian domination.

U Thant has once again suggested a "very high level" conference to "take advantage of the present thaw in the international situation." He pointed out that the People's Republic of China had shown interest in nuclear disarmament.

It does no harm to make such proposals. Since U Thant made his earlier suggestion, the United States has spent billions developing and deploying a limited anti-ballistic missile system and multiple nuclear warheads. So has the Soviet Union and leaders of both nations seem unable to refrain from reacting to such developments or to what they believe to be such developments. Currently France seems willing to remain about as it is as far as nuclear capability is concerned. China is still an unknown factor, although it seems to be moving closer to accommodation with other nations. England will take its lead from the United States.

It is possible that a five-power conference could grow out of the disarmament talks in Geneva, the proposal by the Russians to explore ways of reducing conventional forces on both sides in Europe, the greater willingness of France to work with the rest of Europe and China's recent softer line. But because of the suspicions and doubts on all sides, agreement if it ever comes, is years away.

But no agreement will come unless there are moves to find a means of accommodation. The power to destroy the earth and perhaps even the universe is an uncomfortable presence to live with.

Nixon Criticized on Civil Rights

For the third time since President Nixon took office almost 2½ years ago, the United States Commission on Civil Rights has criticized his administration.

The President's school desegregation policies came under fire from the commission when the Department of Justice sought to extend the time given to several Southern districts to desegregate. The United States Supreme Court unanimously opposed the point of view of the Justice Department and issued orders for compliance with previous desegregation orders. In subsequent decisions regarding bussing, which President Nixon personally opposed, the high Court has consistently ruled against any form of state sponsored segregation.

Then the commission protested that Attorney General John Mitchell's interpretation of voting right laws was too shallow and might well deprive many blacks and other minority groups of the right to vote. Most recently the commission has criticized both the attitude and the performance of the administration's record as to national housing policies.

Back when Daniel Moynihan was part of the administration, there seemed to be some emphasis upon trying to solve the serious urban problems of our larger cities by dispersion of residents rather than by pouring money or remedial programs into the crowded streets and tenements. To this end, improved mass transit systems were proposed to enable city residents to work in the suburbs and suburban residents to retain employment in the cities. There was encouragement of industrial growth in rural areas. Last August the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), under the direction of George Romney, reported to the commission that its goal in administering the federal fair housing act of 1968 was "the creation of open communities which will provide an opportunity for individuals to live within a reasonable distance of their jobs and daily activities by increasing housing options for low income and minority families."

But the commission now charges that "the department has retreated from this stance and now states that it is opposed to use of federal leverage to promote economic integration." The Supreme Court ruled that local referendums could determine whether such low cost housing could be built in a particular area. But the commission says that "the harsh facts of housing economics . . . suggest that racial integration cannot be achieved unless economic integration also is achieved."

Mr. Nixon has said that he does not believe in "forced" integration of the suburbs. But the Reverend Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University and head of the commission, insists that "housing patterns we have today come about through application of federal, mortgage and real estate policies. Our segregated cities have come about through governmental actions of many kinds. This is not de facto segregation, it is de jure. Government helped to create it and it had better try to dismantle it."

But Mr. Romney must confer with Mr. Nixon and Mr. Mitchell about an overall administration policy on suburban integration before he intends to enforce federal fair housing regulations. And whether his motive is political in that he believes he doesn't have the support of minorities or whether it is philosophic, Mr. Nixon has given a pretty fair indication that desegregation in any form is not something he is particularly gung ho about.

Time to Talk About VD

Venereal disease is not a "nice" subject to talk about. Yet it is going to have to be the subject of many more conversations — and various kinds of action, both preventative and curative — if a serious health problem facing our young people especially is going to be solved.

Youth is now the primary victim of VD, the rate of which has doubled in the U.S. in the past year, so now one of every 100 persons is a victim. One of every four cases reported last year involved someone under 20 years old. The gonorrhea rate for 15 to 19-year-olds was more than three times the national average. Two-thirds of the infectious syphilis cases in 1969 involved youths 24 and younger.

Something has to be done. Health officials in Sacramento, Cal., recently tried a "no name" city-wide venereal disease clinic. About 270 youths showed up at various clinic locations for tests and medications. No names were taken or individual records kept, with patients identified only by a number.

Although officials were disappointed that only 19 persons appeared at clinics set up to serve low-income, minority group areas of the city, the idea still seems to be one worth repeating. It may be that some of our traditional ideas about helping persons with such sexual diseases will have to go by the boards if we are to successfully fight the problem.

Whatever is necessary, the medical profession and the general public ought to be aware that some medical experts have claimed that smoking marijuana is a minor problem compared to the brain damage, blindness, meningitis, malfunctions of the liver and kidneys and sterility which can result from VD. That is cause for comparing the amount of public outcry concerning the two.

Nixon and the Conservatives
Reagan Might Co-Chairman
President's Reelection Bid

BY KEVIN P. PHILLIPS
WASHINGTON — How about California Governor Ronald Reagan, the Prince Valiant of American conservatives, as National Co-Chairman of Citizens for the Re-election of President Nixon? This organization, you may remember, is the embryonic 1972 task force headquartered just across from the White House. According to high Administration sources, the Reagan appointment is under discussion, presumably involving a number of quid pro quos, on welfare and the like. The idea is to convince Southern conservatives, as well as hopeful members of manager, and Ruth Van Rossum her assistant.

Phillips

Eighth grade graduates of Liberty Bell School at Shiocton were Audrey Keesler, Rose Samson, Sherry Young, Kenneth Obermeier and David Young.

Carl Schoettler and Paul Jahnke were ticket sales chairmen for the Senior Hi-Y Hop being sponsored by the Stag and Zephyr Clubs at Riverview Country Club on the night of commencement at Appleton High School.

10 YEARS AGO
Friday, June 2, 1961.
New Student Council officers named for the next year at Xavier High School were Genna DeGroot, president of the girls' group, and Tom Hayes, president of the boys' organization.
Other officers for the girls were Mary Regan, Neenah, vice president; Joanne Christianson, recording secretary; Marge Hegner, corresponding secretary, and Kathy Kettenhoven, treasurer.
Richard Wiesner, Neenah, was named vice president for the boys; Tim Brown, Neenah, secretary; Mac Abel, treasurer, and Mike Flanagan, sergeant-at-arms.

Young Americans for Freedom, that Governor Reagan means it when he says that he is not available for a 1972 contest with Mr. Nixon. Moreover, this is just one of the measures under consideration to stem Nixon doubts among GOP conservatives, and bolster the President's right flank for the 1972 election.

Attack Great Society
Decisions are already being weighed to attack several Great Society programs in the fiscal 1973 budget, which must be proposed to Congress in January, 1972. One official has suggested that the Administration might submit zero budget figures for a few programs, in effect requesting their discontinuance.

The political logic of this is simple enough. By staking out a fight on several of the more dubious Democratic programs, the Administration can endear itself to conservatives without actual risk elsewhere.

Nixon strategists also expect to woo conservatives with their policy on suburban zoning and low-income housing. Translated into concrete housing regulations, President Nixon's opposition to "forced integration of the suburbs" is likely to be less total than his sweeping statements have implied, but it should still draw support on the Right and fierce criticism on the Left.

Mr. Nixon's problem with conservatives is reflected in the Administration's advice to liberals "to watch what we do and not what we say." To those in the right wing of the Republican Party this is a succinct statement of Administration policy: mere rhetoric for conservatives, actual programs for liberals. Many conservatives think that no amount of Agnewistic bombast can make up for liberal-to-radical orientation of schemes like the Administration's Family Assistance (Welfare) Plan. Heartfelt as these ideological complaints are, they are not likely to count for much by spring, 1972, when the Administration's conservative programs will be coming into play and the liberal Democratic enemy will be stirring on the horizon.

McCloskey Will Help
Furthermore, spring, 1972 should bring the President other credentials among conservatives. First of all, he is likely to be under attack in the Presidential primaries by leftist, super-dove GOP Congressman Paul McCloskey of California. (McCloskey has already signed on workers, including a former Maine College Republican Chairman for the March, 1972 New Hampshire primary.) White House politicians feel that McCloskey's wild attacks on Mr. Nixon as a domestic reactionary and international warmonger should rebuild the President's position with the right wing.

Furthermore, the President may pick up the "conservative" ballot label in a few states next year. Nelson Rockefeller's New York State organization is shifting right and is expected to let local Republican (Nixon) Presidential electors also accept N.Y. Conservative Party endorsement. A similar question of local Conservative Party endorsements may arise in Michigan and Massachusetts, where such parties have been formed.

Then there is the South, where the President might profit from having a Conservative as well as a Republican line on the ballot, thereby increasing his appeal to Wallacettes and conservative Democrats. However, nothing tangible has been done about this.

Perhaps the main point is that GOP conservatives have no feasible alternative candidate to Mr. Nixon. While California's Field Poll puts the President and Maine Senator Edmund Muskie neck and neck in that state, Governor Reagan trails Muskie by 20 percentage points and Vice President Agnew trails by a staggering thirty-five.

Wisconsin Report
Hephner Vulnerable
In Reapportionment
Of Assembly Seats

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Capital cuff-notes:
Eight task forces devised by GOP State Chairman John Hough (pronounced as in "Huff") to examine strengths and weaknesses of the party machinery and the relevance of some of its traditional methods and practices have been organized. They will be asked to report conclusions to the state committee in mid-autumn.

The report that will be watched with greatest interest will be prepared by a group of nine representatives of the congressional district committees on the question of continuing the practice of pre-primary endorsement of candidates for Republican nominations. There appears little chance that the traditional endorsement practice will be abandoned, but Chairman Hough has apparently chosen a representative group to consider the question in all its aspects.

Young State Rep. James Sensenbrenner of Shorewood went to Washington recently to attend the wedding of a relative and found time while in the capital to confer with some of the prominent Wisconsin Republican politicians for congressman from the 9th District in the event of a vacancy and a special election. Rep. Glenn Davis of the district is generally thought to be the front runner for appointment to a vacant Milwaukee federal judgeship by his friend President Nixon.

Sensenbrenner is evidently concerned about assumptions in the press and elsewhere that State Rep. John Shabaz, the assistant GOP leader in the Assembly, will be nominated with the help of the district party organization. Sensenbrenner told Washingtonians with some influence in home-state affairs that Shabaz would not be the strongest candidate for the party in a special election test that would bring the influence of the Lucey state administration into play in the strategic suburban area.

Rep. Gervase Hephner, the Calumet County Democratic state legislator who is perhaps more vulnerable than any other legislative incumbent to a legislative reapportionment act, is saying that the legislature should not hurry the task.

A delay until the 1973 legislative session would probably be tolerated by the State Supreme Court, he feels, in view of the delay that was shown in the last preceding redistricting act. Hephner's district is considerably below the average that will be required in population for Assembly seats.

It will inevitably be attached to a neighboring county, probably Outagamie, when the legislature decides to proceed with the job that the constitution requires to be accommodated in the legislative session following the decennial federal census.

Gov. and Mrs. Lucey quietly departed from the executive mansion on a recent Saturday evening, without notifying anyone, to accept the invitation of several University of Wisconsin students to come to dinner with them and to talk informally about student life, problems and viewpoints. The governor and his wife had an enjoyable evening, according to accounts that leaked out later.

Industrial interests are preparing a strong campaign for the elimination of the sales tax on fuel that was incorporated into the revenue structure two years ago when some of their representatives were caught napping.

The problem of deleting the tax, and losing $20 million in biennial revenue on industrial and other fuel bills including those of householders, will be more difficult now than it would have been to resist the levy in 1969. The problem is finding replacement money.

A rapid turnover in the top organization roster of the state Republican party, in contrast to earlier times when the Republicans were winning Wisconsin elections easily, is shown in the listing of the state party executive committee members for the new two-year term.

Carroll Metzner, the Madison lawyer whose vigilant determination has been instrumental in winning a few beachheads for the GOP lately in big and strongly Democratic Dane County, is now the dean of the state committee in length of service.

Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto asserted before the convening of the legislature that he intended to resign his chairmanship of the special legislative - administrative committee on Menominee Indian affairs and problems. But he has not done so and colleagues report that he does not intend to do so.

What Does Biblical Word Perfect Mean?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
The enormous response I have received to my recent column about the "meekness" that is blessed in the Bible — in which I pointed out that the modern meaning of "meek" is far from what Jesus had in mind — prompts me to offer another illustration of the ways we misinterpret Biblical injunctions.

"Be thou, therefore, perfect," Jesus instructed the disciple; and the word "perfect" is a stumbling-block for most people. We know we cannot be perfect; nobody human can. We look upon it as a distant goal we should struggle toward, and we do not take this "impossible" instruction too seriously.

But, as Rudolph Bultman, the finest Biblical exegete of our century, has disclosed, the Greek word for "perfect," and its Hebrew antecedent, had more the meaning of "whole, unflawed, uncracked," as a "perfect cup" is one that does not topple or spill its contents and fulfills its function "perfectly."

Jesus knew that nobody could be "perfect." He himself rebuked one of his followers by saying, "Why do you call me 'good'? There is nobody good except our Father in heaven." As a man, Jesus was all too aware of human frailty.

"Be thou, therefore, perfect," properly means, in modern lingo, "get yourself together." It does not point to some far-away ideal of impossible virtue, but to the immediate job of unifying the personality. It is what today's psychiatrist would call "integration" of the self.

Most of us are filled with many disparate and contradictory tendencies; we are curved and cracked, inconsistent and pulled in opposite directions by our sense of values and our selfish needs. We will behave kindly toward someone we know, and badly toward someone we don't know, ignoring the fact that both are equally our "neighbors."

We are enjoined to become a "whole" cup that is stable and steady and seamless, that offers the same ease of drinking to anyone who takes it. A "perfect cup" is not some Platonic ideal, but a real cup designed by an honest craftsman who knows that form follows function. And a "perfect person" is not a saint, but one who puts himself together for the function of acting like a human being at all times.

This is hard, but it is not impossible. It is a psychological task as much as a moral one. And it is "practical" rather than Utopian, for the cracked cup is no good to itself or to anyone else. To become who you are — all the way through — is the only job in life worth pursuing. Jesus' injunction is really what modern psychiatry is all about.

Valley 4-H Roundup

Four in Waupaca to Visit Washington

Four Waupaca County 4-H Club members will attend the Citizenship Shortcourse from June 27 through July 3 in Washington, D. C.

The youngsters will travel to Washington by bus and return by plane. Rodney Buchele, Bayfield County 4-H and youth agent, will conduct the group.

Waupaca county members selected to take the trip are Beth Hintz, Sunrise 4-H Club, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hintz, route 2, Marion; Ardyce Wasrud, Twin Grove 4-H, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wasrud, route 2, Iola; Gerard Thompson, Farmington 4-H, son of James Thompson, route 1, Waupaca and Larry Eisentraut, Case Lake 4-H, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Eisentraut, route 3, Waupaca.

Calumet County summer camp counselors will attend a workshop starting Wednesday at Camp Bird. The camp will continue until June 12.

Counselor candidates are Paul Geiser, Charles Geiser, Sharon Krueger, Dennis Daun, Helen Steiner, Judy Steiner, Joanne Horst, Diane Danes, Cathy Schaefer, Jim Schaefer, Joanne Hertel and Nancy Kopf.

An estimated 50 campers will attend from Calumet County from June 12 through 17, according to Charles P.

Nickolai, Calumet County 4-H and youth agent.

A dog training class will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Outagamie County Fairgrounds in Seymour for Outagamie County 4-H'ers.

A class will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. June 15 at the Hortonville Community Park, according to William Shaw, Outagamie County 4-H and youth agent.

The Waupaca County 4-H Favorite Foods Revue will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Manawa Elementary School gymnasium.

Club members enrolled in foods projects may prepare a favorite dish, display it in an appropriate table setting and explain planning and preparation, according to Mrs. Linda Reinholz, Waupaca County extension home economist.

Miss Barbara Buechner, Winnebago County extension home economist, will judge the event.

The 1971 Outagamie County Tractors Operators Contest will be conducted at 1:15 p.m. June 27 at the Outagamie County Fairgrounds at Seymour.

The contest is for 4-H'ers more than 14 years old who are enrolled in 4-H tractor projects. The contest consists of a safety check, tractor operation with two and four-wheel vehicles, and a written quiz.

Junior members in Calumet County will practice dairy cattle judging Tuesday at the Merton Lee farm north of New Holstein before a four-person team is selected.

judging are Don Horn, Brian Horn, John Kiefer, Daniel Kiefer, Joe Gries, Karen Geiger, Fay Wink and Debbie Lee.

Senior teams members are Paul Gries, Harlan Ott,

Debbie Krueger and Colleen Krahn.

Little More Than Hope

NEW YORK (AP) — It has been about eight months, as nearly as Mr. and Mrs. Chester Konarsky can remember, that they have been living in their car parked beside a sludgy river in a backwater section of the Bronx.

They huddled under blankets in the dead of winter. He salvaged copper wire from abandoned cars to sell for income and dug steamer clams in Long Island Sound to eat and somehow they survived, living on hopes of better times.

"We never asked for anything until last month," said Mrs. Konarsky, 55, when their plight was discovered Thursday. "It just seemed like we could make it without it."

"Maybe you don't know what it's like, but you keep hoping something will turn up," explained Konarsky, 59, who worked in City Island boatyards from his youth until last fall, when an arthritic arm forced him to quit.

They have been without a home since August 1969, when their landlord wanted to raise the rent. They moved from an apartment onto a friend's boat at City Island.

Sold Boat

"It was comical, really," Konarsky says. "I had a lot of time so I fixed up the boat. Then somebody saw it and bought it, so we were out of a place to stay. That was the first time we went to the car."

Mrs. Konarsky has been ill for some years and cannot walk, and it was difficult to find an apartment they could afford that did not have steps.

Both were brought up to believe that it was a disgrace to be on relief. "I kept thinking: well, I just banged my arm, it will heal up," he says. "I was just monkeying around, thinking we could get away without it."

Last summer another friend offered them a room in back of a vacant store. Later the store was rented and they went back to the car. That was about September or October—they remember the weather was still warm.

Joblessness Up; Prices Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total employment rose 500,000 in May to 78.7 million, but because the unemployment rate moved back up in May to match its generally rises more in May than in April, the rate rose to a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent, the bureau figured it as a result of the U.S. work force, the government said today.

Jobless rates rose especially for construction workers and sales workers and young women, rising from 10.3 per cent in April to 11.5 per cent in May. The number of long-term unemployed—27 weeks or more—climbed substantially, the Labor Department said.

The national jobless rate was up from 6.1 per cent in April, said the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The actual number of jobless Americans dropped 300,000 to a total of 4.4 million, but because it usually declines more than that in May the bureau figured it as a rise of 130,000 on a seasonal basis.

Average Earnings
The bureau also reported that average earnings of some 45 million rank and file workers—more than half the nation's work force—rose two cents an hour to $3.40 and increased $1.41 per week to $125.46.

The average weekly paycheck was up $7.06 for a six per cent gain over the past year. A 4.3 per cent rise in living costs over the same period reduced purchasing power $5.39 per week, leaving the average worker with a net gain of $1.67.

The report said the nation's total employment rose 500,000 in May to 78.7 million, but because the unemployment rate moved back up in May to match its generally rises more in May than in April, the rate rose to a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent, the bureau figured it as a result of the U.S. work force, the government said today.

Jobless rates rose especially for construction workers and sales workers and young women, rising from 10.3 per cent in April to 11.5 per cent in May. The number of long-term unemployed—27 weeks or more—climbed substantially, the Labor Department said.

Racial Breakdown
In a racial breakdown, the bureau said the unemployment rate for Negroes rose from 10.0 to 10.5 per cent, highest in nearly eight years, and the rate for white workers edged up from 5.6 to 5.7 per cent for the highest in nearly 10 years.

The jobless rate for full time workers rose from 5.5 to 5.8 per cent, the report said.

"The average duration of joblessness lengthened in May, primarily reflecting a sizeable increase in very long-term unemployment. The number of persons unemployed 27 or more weeks rose by 150,000 over the month to 530,000, seasonally adjusted, the highest level since May 1963," the bureau said.

The average length of unemployment for all the jobless increased from 10.9 weeks to 11.5 weeks, it said.

The jobless rate for all men rose from 4.4 to 4.5 per cent and for all women from 7.3 to 7.5 per cent.

The rate for women remained unchanged at 6 per cent at a total of 1.5 million. The rate for teen-agers edged up from 17.2 to 17.3 per cent at a total of 981,000, the bureau said.

The number of persons working part time because they cannot find full time jobs totaled 2.5 million, about the same as in April and matching last December's eight-year high, it said.

The nation's total civilian labor force rose 200,000 to 83 million, highest in history and nearly 300,000 above the previous high reached last January. Nearly half the May increase in the work force were adult men. The total number of workers in the key category of nonfarm payrolls rose 420,000 to 70.8 million, showing the first gain since January but was still more than 400,000 below the record high of March 1970, the report said.

The average work week for all nonfarm payroll employees remained unchanged at 37 hours for the third straight month, the report said.

"The average work week has remained on a virtual plateau since the fall of 1970," it said. The average work week in manufacturing moved up slightly to 39.9 hours, recovering a loss in the previous month. It was still a full hour below the high of March 1969, the bureau said.

Metals, Fuel Lead In Upturn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for steel and other metals and a sharp jump for gasoline were major factors in pushing over-all wholesale prices up four-tenths of one per cent last month, the government said today.

Continued strength in metal and metal products prices and a sharp upturn in the fuels indexes caused about 70 per cent of the total rise for industrials," said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The May increase pushed the government's Wholesale Price Index up to 113.8. This means wholesale goods worth $100 on the average in the 1967 base period cost $113.80 last month.

The index was up 3.4 per cent over the past year but the annual rate of 4.3 per cent the past six months was the highest for any six-month period since March of 1970; the bureau said this was still below the peak rate of 5.2 per cent for the six months ending in June 1969.

Commodities Index
The increases for metals, fuels and other goods pushed the over-all industrial commodities index up four-tenths of one per cent.

Farm products rose nine-tenths of one per cent, but the bureau figured a 1.1 per cent decline on a seasonal basis because fruits and vegetables did not show the approximately 10 per cent rise of a year earlier.

The over-all wholesale price hike of four-tenths of one per cent was the highest in three months, but on a seasonal basis the bureau said it was three-tenths compared with April's five-tenths increase.

Price increases for a number of steel bar and pipe items and for several semi-finished steel items were reflected in the May index, the report said.

"Foundry and forge shop products and a number of fabricated metal products, also were up in price," it added.

Gasoline Prices
"Sharply higher gasoline prices were the major factor in the fuels rise; natural gas and electric power advanced, but coal prices declined somewhat," it said.

There were also increases for machinery and equipment, textiles—except for a drop in wool and jute. Other price hikes were posted for paper products, furniture, motor vehicle parts, lumber and wood products, mineral building materials and leather.

Returned POWs Unclaimed

UPSHUR (AP) — The U.S. troopship Uphur with 13 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners of war aboard return to Da Nang today after Hanoi announced its agreement to accept the prisoners was off.

The prisoners appeared downcast as they were removed from the Uphur and taken to a prison camp near Da Nang. They had been flown from the Bien Hoa prison camp near Saigon. Officials said they would not return there but would remain at Da Nang.

The Uphur and her escort of 10 gunboats had circled off the coast all morning awaiting instructions. The Uphur never entered the cease-fire area off the demilitarized zone where the trapezoid was to have taken place.

"We believe we have complied with the Geneva convention and the conditions of the agreement," said a spokesman for the U.S. military. "We deeply regret the other side did not accept this humanitarian offer."

Other POWs
In balking at the last minute, the North Vietnamese accused the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments of blocking the release of most of the 570 disabled POWs Saigon had offered on April 29 to free. A statement distributed in Paris Thursday said the arrangements Hanoi agreed to "are no longer valid."

This week, five weeks after the original offer, the Saigon government announced that only 13 of the prisoners were willing to go home. Repatriation was offered to another 90 disabled prisoners, but they, too, refused.

The South Vietnamese government dealt with representatives of the International Red Cross. Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam claimed those who refused feared reprisals in the North.

The North Vietnamese said the whole thing was a "dishonorable and an odious act." They demanded the release of all "patriots being held illegally in South Vietnam" and that they be allowed to stay in South Vietnam or go North, whichever they preferred.

U.S. officials in Washington and Saigon had hoped that North Vietnam's earlier willingness to accept the prisoners' even specify terms for their delivery might lead to a POW exchange that would free Americans held in North Vietnam.

Some 339 Americans, almost all of them fliers shot down in bombing raids over the North, are known to be prisoners in North Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry charged the Hanoi regime showed "bad faith in going back on its word and in refusing to accept the disabled soldiers it had sent in an aggressive war against the Republic of Vietnam."

Agree in Principle

Plan Agencies to Merge

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A major step toward resolving the regional planning difficulties was taken Thursday when the chairmen of the two Appleton-based agencies agreed in principle to a merger.

They reached accord on major points, including the eventual stepping down of Gordon Bubolz as chairman of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, but they apparently failed to agree on one key point — what to do with the five northernmost counties of Northeastern.

Kaukauna Mayor Gilbert Anderson, Fox Valley Council of Governments chief past COG decision against forming an agency that would include the northern counties, while Bubolz stood firm on letting those five decide whether they want to stay with Northeastern.

Bubolz expressed surprise this morning at Anderson's position on the northern counties. He said the two had agreed to let those counties decide whether to stay.

He also emphasized that he would step down as Northeastern chairman but probably would remain on as a commissioner for the remainder of his term.

The proposals must be ratified by COG and Northeastern. Northeastern commissioners are expected to go along with their chairman, but the fate of the merger when it is brought before COG's governing body next week is less certain.

The two chairmen met privately at noon Thursday in Combined Locks, where they worked out the points of agreement.

A merger agreement by the two agencies should swing much influence but the final decision regarding a single regional planner remains with the county. Future regional planning boundaries will be along county lines.

Both chairmen were optimistic that a final merger could be reached. Their points of agreement were that:

★ Bubolz would be willing to step down from his chairman position six months after consolidation. He said that he might stay on as a commissioner but that he felt he had served long enough as chairman, a post he held for a decade.

"I will continue to take a very active interest in working for the preservation and restoration and improvement of the quality of the environment," he said this morning, noting that this was owed to future generations. Bubolz noted that Anderson had suggested that Bubolz should stay in the regional planning field as an adviser.

★ Elected officials from villages, cities and counties would comprise the majority on the new governing board, but there would be citizen board members as well. State and federal agency and local officials prefer this arrangement.

★ The two planning agencies' staffs would remain intact for the present. But efforts to eliminate duplication apparently would be effected eventually.

★ The counties of Marquette, Green Lake, Fond du Lac and Calumet would be invited to join the new organization. They are part of the Lake Winnebago state services district while the other four district counties already are in northeastern.

There has been a push in recent months to make boundaries of planning agencies and the districts coterminous.

★ The new agency would include metropolitan and nonmetropolitan divisions, with COG naming a metropolitan director and Northeastern naming a nonmetropolitan director. The decision on whether a single executive director would head the organization and other operational details were not worked out.

★ Charles Hervey, executive director of Northeastern, and Lawrence Michaels, COG's director of public works, should review budgetary requirements and needs for 1972.

They disagreed on a name. Bubolz said he felt that the suggestions of member counties should be given consideration, while Anderson preferred the Lake Winnebago Council of Governments.

Each chairman made a statement concerning the merger discussion. Anderson said that he felt the

Nixon's Concern for Police Political, Commissioner Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's show of concern over the slayings of 100 policemen in the past 11 months has been tainted by political considerations, says a police official left out of a White House conference.

New York Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy, who was not among the 23 police heads or sheriffs who met with Nixon, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Thursday, greeted his exclusion with "disappointment and dismay."

"We cannot allow political considerations to hinder cooperative efforts to improve the safety of our police officers and the public," said Murphy, whose force has lost seven of the 52 law officers killed since Jan. 1. The White House said Hoover had drawn up the guest list for the meeting.

Murphy, a Democrat, is a protégé of former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, described by Hoover as a "softie" and a "jellyfish."

A Hoover aide said Murphy was not present "because he was in New York personally directing the investigation of the murders of his two men as Mr. Hoover would want to be if it had been FBI agents killed."

It was the May 21 ambush slaying of two New York officers, and the recent deaths of two Washington policemen, that prompted Nixon to call Thursday's meeting.

Chief's Association
Also left out of the White House conference was Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Tamm reportedly asserted Hoover vetoed his presence because of personal animosity, but at least seven other IACP officials, including its president, attended.

The gathering itself was described by one Justice Department official as "window dressing." Meetings next Monday and Tuesday at Justice are expected to develop more solid proposals, he indicated.

Mitchell disclosed, however, the administration will back legislation providing federal compensation to survivors of policemen killed in the line of duty. He told newsmen the amount would be $50,000, but gave no details.

Mitchell reiterated his opposition to legislation to make killing a policeman a federal crime, contending most such deaths are best solved by local authorities.

Police deaths in the line of duty have risen from an average of 56 per year between 1960-69 to an estimated 100 in 1970.

Statistics kept by the IACP show 100 officers were slain between last July 1 and the end of May.

Of the 52 police deaths since Jan. 1, eight were the result of allegedly unprovoked or ambush-type attacks; 49 of the 52 officers were killed by firearms, the IACP said. Of the 49 firearms deaths, 41 involved handguns or pistols, it said.

NATO Wants Talk On Arms Reduction

LISBON (AP) — All the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization except France decided today to hold a special meeting this year to discuss how to deal with the Soviet Union on mutual troop cuts in Europe.

The United States and its allies will send the No. 2 men in their foreign ministries to the session. The proposal was pressed by Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the NATO meeting ending later today.

The 14 allies may appoint one or more representatives to explore ideas with the Soviets. This representation would report to the North Atlantic Council—which includes France.

The arrangement emerged from the two-day meeting of Rogers and his fellow foreign ministers, including Maurice Schumann of France.

All the allies, including France, agreed that when a settlement has been reached with Moscow on the future of Berlin, there can be a general exploration of a broader conference on European security.

The Soviet Union has pressed for such a conference, to deal with trade and scientific cooperation as well as military questions.

The ministers noted with satisfaction that negotiations on Berlin have gone into a more active phase and some progress has been reached before they are due to meet again in December in Brussels.

This summary of the two-day meeting in Lisbon's Ajuda Palace was given to reporters by Foreign Minister Walter Scheel of West Germany in advance of the ministers' formal statement.

He said they also recognized that an agreement between the two German states—West Germany and Communist East Germany—on how to get along with one another would be a contribution to improving the international climate in Europe.

U.S. officials said the meeting in Brussels of the No. 2 men—deputy foreign ministers—will be held if it is justified by exploratory talks which diplomats of member countries will have with the Russians and their allies. The U.S. representative will be John Irwin, undersecretary of state.

Attorney Gives Lawmen Tips on Trial Preparation

MADISON — Policemen and prosecutors got a lesson in successful trial preparation Thursday from a courtroom adversary.

Madison attorney Richard E. Lent was one of three speakers at a trial preparation seminar held as part of State Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's annual Law Enforcement Conference which ended Thursday. Others participating in the discussion were Milwaukee County Dist. Atty. E. Michael McCann and David C. Mebane, an assistant attorney general.

Lent, a former Dane County deputy district attorney and now chairman of the Madison Fire and Police Commission, used some of his own experience as a veteran criminal defense lawyer to show lawmen and district attorneys how they can be better prepared when they enter the courtroom.

Lent said that one of his first considerations in formulating a defense is trying to establish an alibi for his client. The next is seeking a break in the chain of evidence presented by the prosecution.

Lie Detector Tests

The attorney said he frequently asks his clients to take polygraph (lie detector) tests which usually are administered at Reed Institute in Chicago.

"It's important for me to know, in my own mind, if my client is telling me the truth. It helps me to be more vigorous if he passes the test," Lent explained.

He also cautioned police and prosecutors not to underestimate the importance of a preliminary hearing which he termed "one of the greatest aids to defense preparation."

Lent added, "the defense attorney will go over the transcript (of the preliminary) with a fine tooth comb" and will use it "to trick you" at the trial.

Lawmen were urged to adhere strictly to press-police-bar guidelines recently established to regulate the release of pre-trial information on crimes. Lent said one of the best sources of information for criminal case preparation is a clipping service.

enough comes from members of Congress."

He said that while where are some who argue that opposition is so formidable that revenue sharing is a dead issue, he still considers it "a very live issue."

Opponents, he charged, "are turning a deaf ear to the people."

Leonard was optimistic about long-range results in the nation's fight against crime. In the last two years, he said, crime has grown at an average of less than 12 per cent, compared to a growth of 16 per cent for the previous two years. And, in 22 cities, including Washington, D.C., the crime rate was reduced last year.

There are, however, serious problems in the criminal justice system, Leonard declared. Taking top priority, lawmen were informed, are:

Priority Problems

— Recidivism. Two of three offenders are "back into the system" within six years and for those under 21 years of age, the figure is three of four.

— Juvenile delinquency. "Arrests of juveniles are growing

"Some things come out in the newspapers that never would have come out otherwise," he explained.

Pieces of Conversation

Lent said a good defense attorney also will learn a lot about his case just by sitting around the prosecutor's office, picking up pieces of conversation between secretaries, policemen and district attorneys. "It happens invariably," he remarked.

Lent urged district attorneys to work on getting special investigators for their offices to. It sometimes is better to prepare cases "on the street," he said, because "many people feel police departments, district attorneys office and courts are told lawmen to 'assume the inherently coercive places'."

Mebane, who heads the criminal division of the attorney general's office, cautioned lawmen better responsibility in the preparation of the case for trial. He said police must detail their investigation of a case.

Easing of County's No-Camping Rule Sought

An easing of Outagamie County's no-camping rule is being recommended by the county board's public properties and parks committee to permit camping by youth groups with adult supervision.

The camping question was raised Thursday night by Warren Smith, scoutmaster of Troop 5 at St. Therese Catholic Church, who told the committee, "You cannot find anyplace to camp anymore." He said he had planned on taking the troop to Barker access site at Shuon until the no-camping signs were noticed.

Under existing county rules, no camping is permitted at any

Strike Halts Construction On Hospital

CLINTONVILLE — All construction on the addition to Community Hospital has stopped due to strikes, according to R. J. Platte, hospital administrator.

Sheet metal workers have been off for two weeks; carpenters and painters, since Tuesday morning and the masons are expected to go out today.

Only the foremen were on the job site cleaning up.

More than 70 days were lost on this project last year due to various strikes, Platte stated.

Alice in Dairyland Will be in Brillion

BRILLION — Susan Masterson, the current "Alice in Dairyland," will make her final appearance in that role when she attends a 2 to 4 p.m. Silver Tea at the United Methodist Church here June 16.

Miss Masterson will be at the Brillion SENTRY Store from 9 to 10 a.m., at the T&C Market from 10 to 11 a.m. and will attend the Friendly Valley 4-H dairy luncheon at the Forest Junction School from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The 1972 Alice in Dairyland finals will be conducted June 17, 18 and 19 in Peshigo.

three to four times as fast as their numbers are growing," Leonard said.

— Narcotics. In big cities, narcotics comprise half of all criminal activities, he said.

— Courts. "Some states are lost somewhere in the 19th century."

— Prisons. "In some states there has been little change in 200 years." Prison conditions in some states have mushroomed into national scandals, Leonard charged.

— Police. There is, he explained, a need for more and better trained policemen, improved police-community relations and more and better equipment and techniques.

investigation for their district attorney and "... don't assume his mastery of the case is as good as yours."

Trial preparation, McCann explained, must begin before the actual commission of the offense.

Re-enact Crime

McCann said he likes to re-enact a crime at the scene of the crime with policemen and witnesses. "The re-enactment should take place at approximately the same hour as the actual crime," he advised.

It sometimes is better to prepare cases "on the street," he said, because "many people feel police departments, district attorneys office and courts are told lawmen to 'assume the inherently coercive places'."

Mebane, who heads the criminal division of the attorney general's office, cautioned lawmen better responsibility in the preparation of the case for trial. He said police must detail their investigation of a case.

Waupaca Man Sentenced for Furnishing Beer

WAUPACA — A 21-year-old Waupaca man this week was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors and furnishing malt beverages for minors and sentenced to the Waupaca County jail with Huber Law privileges by Judge Nathan Wiese in County Court Branch 2.

Richard Danielson, N. Franklin St., was sentenced to 90 days for the first offense and 30 days on the second count. They will run concurrently.

Danielson allegedly accepted $20 from six juveniles on May 22, purchased a quarter-barrel of beer for them and took it to the home of a 16-year-old boy where a party was held.

When parents returned to the home early May 23, they found the party in progress with the six minor boys and girls. The father called city police.

Summer Reading Scheduled for Marion Pupils

MARION — Summer reading classes will be conducted during a four week period, starting June 14.

The classes, conducted in the elementary school, are designed to help pupils that need additional work and prevent the interest lag that often develops during the summer. However, the emphasis will be on reading for pleasure, authorities said.

Two teachers will conduct the program, each teaching three classes of one hour each. The first class will be at 9 a.m. with the final class ending at 11:30 a.m. There will not be any classes on Monday July 5.

The program is not compulsory, however, after reviewing records and consulting with teachers, certain pupils will be invited to participate, according to authorities.

If classes are not filled by the pupils invited, the enrollment will be opened to all pupils. Classes will be held to 10-12 per class.

Smith said Plamann Park has been used but that the scouts occasionally like to go someplace else that is still local.

No Campgrounds

Supv. Nick Karras, Appleton committee chairman, said he has received at least a dozen telephone calls in the last week inquiring about camping facilities in the county. There are neither public nor private campgrounds in Outagamie County.

Supv. Al Krause, Town of Liberty, asked Smith what kind of facilities were needed for camping. "We don't need anything," he said, except a place to go.

Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, asked if Mosquito Hill would be satisfactory. Smith said that would be fine and that the committee could figure out a project for the scouts to do while they were there.

Knights Plan Barn Dance

Rural New London Farm Will be Site For Charity Event

NEW LONDON — A "good old-fashioned" barn dance will be the next program featured by the Knights of Columbus Charities for the New London area.

The men will hold their gala event on the Richard Everts farm, north of New London on Waupaca County trunk N. Friday, June 11.

Those attending will dance from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Refreshments will also be available during the evening.

The Knights of Columbus Charities have sponsored two teen dances in the past.

Proceeds of the dances go to local projects of the Knights, including such things as helping the day care centers and families who have suffered from various tragedies.

The committee for the barn dance are Robert Flease, chairman, Bill Stillman, Claude Krautkramer, Pete Flease, Lyle Cherny, Bob Christ, Walter Heise, and Gordy Allen.

Kaukauna Committee To Review COG Plan

KAUKAUNA — The commercial, industrial and city development committee will meet at 4 p.m. Monday in the council chambers to review a Fox Valley Council of Governments comprehensive plan for the city.

The group also is expected to discuss a recommendation for formation of an Industrial Development Corp. to work with existing industries and to promote new industries for the community.

3-Year-Old Killed In Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — A 3-year-old boy was killed about 9:30 a.m. today when he rode his tricycle into the path of a car near his home.

Authorities identified the victim as Timothy A. Smits, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smits, 315 Wallace St., Combined Locks. The boy was dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was taken by ambulance, according to Kenneth Kemps, Outagamie County deputy coroner. Death apparently was the result of a broken neck, Kemps said.

According to Kemps, the youngster, who was playing along Wallace Street with several other children, rode his tricycle into the street in front of an eastbound car driven by John A. Vandehey, 18, 1032 Adams Place, Kimberly.

The accident was still under investigation by Combined Locks police late this morning. The boy's death is the 10th of the year in Outagamie County omores; Charles Abraham, Merri Kapitzke, Pat Kneip and Alice Koehler, juniors, and Sue Anderson, Fay Bartel, John Dean and Chris Kohl, seniors.

Leonard Defends Keeping Dossiers on Lawmakers

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Former State Sen. Jerris Leonard returned to his old legislative battleground Thursday and during a visit with lawmakers denied he is in line for U. S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's job, defended mass arrests at the May Day demonstrations in Washington, endorsed the keeping of dossiers on lawmakers and plugged President Nixon's revenue sharing proposal.

Leonard, former legislator from Bayside who now heads the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in Washington, was the featured speaker at the state attorney general's Conference on Law Enforcement which concluded Thursday.

Leonard dismissed a report published in Washington Wednesday that he was being considered to replace Mitchell who reportedly plans to resign as the nation's top prosecutor to handle Nixon's 1972 presidential campaign. He said Mitchell has not told him that he plans to leave.

Leonard, explaining that he desires to return to private life, said that instead of seeking a higher federal job he might remove himself from office when Nixon's term expires.

With State Atty. Gen. Robert Warren at his side during a press conference, Leonard was quizzed about the keeping of dossiers on public figures.

Leonard replied, "If federal legislators are violating federal laws, then there will be dossiers compiled on them, as I think there should be."

He continued, "If you're not violating the law you don't have anything to fear from Bob Warren and John Mitchell."

"I care not whether he is a powerful individual in terms of being a powerful politician or the lowest individual in the world. If he has violated the law, we as citizens, collectively through our duly appointed police agencies, have not only the right but the obligation to compile dossiers on people who violate the law and I hope we will always continue to do that."

Warren has come under fire from State Assembly Democrats who contend he is keeping files on state legislators. Warren has denied the allegation.

Leonard said Washington police did the right thing in arresting some 13,000 demonstrators on May Day and added that he saw little significance in the fact that charges against thousands of them were dismissed. He labeled the Washington demonstration "an act of collective violence" and said he believed everyone arrested was guilty.

Leonard told some 200 police officials and district attorneys at the conference that, "In a substantial measure, the future of our system depends on the adoption of (Nixon's) revenue-sharing proposal."

"At stake," he explained, "is the continued existence of states, cities and counties as effective, independent bodies of government." Nixon's proposal for specific revenue-sharing in the area of law enforcement would be of "tremendous benefit" to state and local governments, Leonard said because it would mean that they no longer would have to march federal assistance dollars.

Revenue Sharing

Leonard was critical of revenue-sharing opponents. "The opposition comes from the majority of state and local officials who have their own programs," he said. Delegates were told, "The opposition," Leonard said, "is largely

Awards Highlight Marion Class Night

MARION — Scholarships and special awards were presented Wednesday during the annual class night at the high school.

Debra Krueger, senior class president, gave the welcome address and Sue Mielke read the class will. Amy Dahl, student council president, presented the spirit cup to the senior class, which also won it last year as juniors.

The traditional hatchet was presented by Steve Niemuth, senior vice president, to Charles Adams, junior class president. Mrs. Martin Lutzewitz, organist, played the processional, the seniors were directed by Miss Rose Lawrence in singing the class song, and the high school band played under the direction of Larry Schuster.

Freshman Awards

The freshman citizenship award, sponsored by the William Bertram Legion Post 198 and voted by the high school faculty, was presented to Mary Mielke. Barbara Hedtke received the freshman scholastic award, and Margaret McInnis, the DAR award.

Robert Eggleston, industrial arts instructor presented the Albert H. Krueger industrial arts scholarship award to James Kraeger. Industrial arts club scholarships went to Tony Bowers, Bruce Kunze, Gary Strehlow, Dennis Westphal and Donna Arndt.

The Marion Manufacturing Co. award to the outstanding senior boy in industrial arts was given to Dennis Lucht.

Principal Robert Peterson presented the outstanding senior girl and senior boy awards, sponsored by Marion Plywood Corp. and Marion Body Works, to Margaret McInnis and Mike Daley.

FFA Honors

The Future Farmers of America award sponsored by the Marion State Bank was presented by David Van Laarhoven to Bruce Kunze and he also presented the DeKalb award to Gary Krueger. Mrs. Paul Padcock presented the Future Homemaker of America award to Sandra Nordwig.

The journalism award, presented by Mrs. William Bertram, was given to Mary Nolan, editor of the school newspaper, Telstar, and to Margaret McInnis, editor of the school yearbook, Mario. Mrs. Lillian Abrahamson presented the forensic award, sponsored by the Marion Womens Club, to Sandra Nordwig.

The Donald Krueger Memorial Award for the outstanding senior athlete chosen by the coaching staff was presented by Gordon Kopitzke, school athletic director, to Mike Daley.

Mike Meyer received the "W" award, given to a senior athlete who excells scholastically, from Marlyn Bailey.

Supt. Lloyd Nell presented the state honor scholarships to Margaret McInnis, Charlene Mehlberg, Mary Nolan, and Beverly Buhr. Beverly's mother accepted for her as she is attending school this year in Germany under the AFS program.

The valedictorian scholarship also went to Miss Buhr and the salutatorian scholarship to Sandra Nordwig.

WITTENBERG — A class of 108 graduates was honored last Friday in commencement exercises held in the Village Park.

Speakers were Jane Nemke, valedictorian; Ronald Miller, salutatorian; Larry Day, class president, and Kristine Lendved, top honor student.

Supt. Erwin Nickstrom presented the diplomas. Scholarship awards were presented by Principal Jackson Gerald Jackson.

Jane Nemke, Laird Scholarship; Sue Czerwinka and Vicki Halbesleben, Olive Graham Memorial Scholarships given by the Wausau Memorial Hospital Alumni Association; John Yeager, Wittenberg Lions Club Scholarship; Michael Kaufman, Hatley-Ringle Lions Club Scholarship; Beverly Pietz, the Bertha Netzel Home Economics Scholarship; and Sue Czerwinka, Elderon-Galloway PTA Scholarship.

Recognition was also made to honor scholars from various colleges. Included were Jane Nemke, John Yeager, Linda Beversdorf, and Kristine Lendved.

Other awards included Bruce Beversdorf, UW-Madison; Linda Beversdorf and Vicki Halbesleben, Eau Claire State University; John Yeager, La Crosse State University; Sue Cherek, Larry Day, Nancy Resch, and Tony Tushkowski, Stevens Point State University; Beverly Pietz and Allen Seidler, Stout State University; Steve Hanke and Marge Levandowski, UW-Green Bay.

Summer Speech Therapy Class Set in Hilbert

HILBERT — A summer speech therapy class will be conducted from June 21 to July 30 at the public school here by Mrs. Carmen Gorud, Kiel, who will replace James Larson while he is attending summer school. Larson will return to the system in fall.

Referral sheets have been sent for parents' approval and Mrs. Gorud will be at the school Saturday for screening.

Individual instructions will be given for 20 to 30 minutes daily to pupils from St. Peter Lutheran, St. Mary and St. John-Sacred Heart Catholic schools. Trinity Lutheran, and Hilbert public. Not more than 20 pupils can be accepted in the program which is financed through state aids. Parents must provide transportation for the children.

Black Creek Gets Report On Sewers

Mains Should be Repaired Due to Water Leakage

BLACK CREEK — The village board was told last week that sewer mains in the village would have to undergo repairs due to a clear water infiltration of up to 239,400 gallons per day.

The recommendation was made by the American Pipe Services Co., a firm that did a television study of the sewer system last summer and this spring. The study indicated that most of the water, up to 180,000 gallons per day, comes from house service infiltration. Eighty-one homes were found to be contributors.

The balance comes from leaky joints in the streets, 10,080 gallons, and leaking manholes and cracked pipes.

The board submitted a recommendation to seal the leaking joints and to replace some of the cracked and broken mains to Robert Phillips, village engineer, for further consideration.

Bill Would Permit Parking Lot Bonding

MADISON — At the request of the Green Bay city administration, Rep. Jerome Quinn of Green Bay has introduced a legislative bill to broaden city powers to issue general obligation bonds for parking lots and to permit such bonding without a referendum unless a petition for such a popular vote is filed.

City officials told the Brown County legislative delegation that present law authorizes such bonds only for "parking lots" and that such means of financing other parking facilities would be desirable.

Alumnus Honoris NLRB Head Given Clintonville High School's Highest Award

CLINTONVILLE — A high-ogically, but it must be in National Relations Board. He is state, national or world-wide geographic area to qualify. Local accomplishments, no matter how significant, are not sufficient," he said.

Since it was instituted 15 years ago, 12 alumni have been designated "Alumnus Honoris." Dr. Oberhauser continued, "The first recipient was the late Dr. William Frederick Meggers, well-known physicist.

Following Dr. Meggers were, in 1957, the late Max Stieg, banker; 1958, the late Robert N. Gibson, philanthropist; 1959, the late Dr. Llewellyn Cole, awarded posthumously for accomplishments in the field of public health; 1960, Laurel Behnke, agriculturalist; 1962, Walter C. Kirchner, agriculturalist; 1963, Robert A. Olen, for work in public safety; 1964, Colonel Robert W. Samz, military; 1965, Ronald H. Fillnow, physicist; 1967, Dr. Clarence Hultman, scientist; 1968, Dr. James Bard, military medicine, and 1969, Mrs. George McCauley, for women's leadership."

Miller was born in Milwaukee, Mar. 26, 1922, the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller. He attended Clintonville public schools and graduated from high school here in June 1938.

Miller graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1947, with a Bachelor of Law degree, after returning from active duty in the U.S. Navy. He was associated with a law firm in Chicago, and in 1953, became a partner in the Pope, Ballard firm. He was appointed to a five year term as chairman of the National Labor Relations Board in June, 1970, by President Richard M. Nixon.

Dr. Oberhauser concluded, "Until after noon today, we were not sure he would be present because this morning he was appearing before a House Appropriations Committee in regard to the budget for the heart."

Values Survive

Miller accepted the Certificate and said, in part, "I have nurtured the values that I guess were instilled in me by my parents. I have found those values to have survived as a basis for judgment in these fast-changing times and fast-changing environment that have been my own recent experience."

"So, thank you," Miller said. He then asked, "What should I bring to you from Washington, D.C.? Well, I'm not going to bore you with rambling reminiscences about my day — nor am I going to exhort the graduating seniors with what they would doubtless regard as anachronistic advice from a member of a fast-passing generation. So what should I bring?"

"Well, a smile or two, perhaps," the speaker continued as he related how he was taken from private secretary to public service in Washington "and that was kind of a jolting experience."

Miller related attending a prayer breakfast in Washington a month or two ago at which he said President Nixon said a very few words — "but I thought they were very well chosen, and just let me pass on the key statement to you. He said that he thought that probably the most appropriate prayer for all time — an ancient one spoken by King Solomon, I believe it was, when he ascended the throne — Not for were not sure he would be present because this morning he was appearing before a House Appropriations Committee in regard to the budget for the heart."

Pick Lobbyist To Head Fight For 2 Courts

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Waupaca County Bar Association has retained the services of one of its members, a professional lobbyist, to lead a drive to retain two county courts.

The pending state budget bill proposes the elimination of the second court now authorized for the county. It has the support of the State Judicial Council and the office of the state court administrator, which is asking for more judicial manpower in the populous counties and less in the smaller jurisdictions.

Richard Peterson of Waupaca, a former assemblyman and now a lobbyist, represents the county in the effort to retain the two court authorization.

Appleton Firm Bids Low on Chilton Projects

CHILTON — P and B Excavating Co., Appleton, was low bidder on two projects in the city of Chilton for which bids were opened at a special meeting Thursday.

One bid was for $28,148 for the installation of sewer and water mains on Highway 151 and for more judicial manpower in the populous counties and less in the smaller jurisdictions.

The finance committee was authorized by resolution to borrow $375,000 from two city banks to cover the cost of construction planned this year.

Attorney Edward Boone Miller, left, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, Washington, D. # OCTC Graduates 'Big' Influence' on Children

KAUKAUNA — A class which bridges the generation gap and ment speaker was Dr. Donald Jorgenson associate professor and counselor in the School of Education at Oshkosh State University (OSU), where many OCTC students continue education.

Sixty-six students, teens and young adults, ended their two years at the Outagamie County Teachers College on Wednesday with a look to the next plateau of learning.

Trophies and ribbons were awarded in the various events. The first place trophy winners were in the yearling class, Don Wilhelm; yearling class, Tom Mehlberg; open mare, Sandra Hilde, open gelding, Jay Rothman; registered Appaloosa, Kaue Diemel, registered quarter horse, Mary Brown; egg and spoon, junior, Cindy Schmallenberg; boot race, Andy Overdahl; horsemanship, junior, Cindy Schmallenberg, western pleasure, Sue Bausch; barrels, senior, Dave Castonia, and barrels, junior, Kim Brody.

Appropriately, the commencement speaker was Dr. Donald Jorgenson associate professor and counselor in the School of Education at Oshkosh State University (OSU), where many OCTC students continue education.

Since the goal for most is to go on for an elementary education degree, that's what Jorgenson concentrated on, calling the graduates future teachers "the biggest influences on the lives of children."

"You have the prime years of a child's life, the years when his personality is shaped. These are the years when the child discovers his likes and dislikes; when he enforces his own image of himself; when he learns the basic skills on which his future will be built," Jorgenson pointed out.

Because so much of a child's life is spent in school, his biggest influence comes from the teachers, he added.

Turning to the topic of the graduates themselves, the OSU educator encouraged them to continue with their education.

"This is only the mid-point," he said. "You have read that there no longer is a shortage of teachers." While there always will be a shortage of good teachers, the chances of getting a job are better with a degree, he indicated.

While urging them to go on to a university, the speaker pointed out that the transition might be rough from a "warm, friendly school to an institution where you become a number." He said that fact should not keep them from becoming truly involved in all that is good.

"Get involved with the social problems of the day, but do it in a positive and a building fashion, not a tearing-down one," he said.

The speaker shared the platform with Mrs. Marcia Specht, mother and a graduate, who welcomed the friends and relatives; E. H. Gordon, OCTC president; Linda Jarosinski, class president, who thanked the audience for their interest; and Gary Stefens, who read a farewell to his classmates and colleagues.

Waupaca Court Fines 7 For Traffic Violations

WAUPACA — Seven traffic offenders were fined $50 or more this week in County Court, Branch 2. They are:

Ronald L. Rosenau, 24, route 1, Manawa, who pleaded no contest to hit and run in a one-car accident May 23 on State Highway 54, one-quarter mile west of Northport. Town of Mukwa. He paid $100 fine plus $10 cost.

Steve Lindell, 24, Minneapolis.

Program at Bonduel to Start June 14

Summer Activities Include Little League And Swim Classes

BONDUEL — The summer recreation program here will begin June 14 and run for seven weeks.

The Little League baseball program will begin for eight- and nine-year-olds at 1 p.m. June 14 at the Cedar Park Baseball Field. The 19- and 11-year-olds will meet at the Bonduel Village Park Field 9 a.m. the same day. The Little League baseball program for boys 12-14 will begin at 1 p.m. that day at the Village Park Field. No boy who was in high school this past year may take part in this program.

A 16-member team will be picked for the 10-11 and 12-14 age groups to participate in the Central Wisconsin Boys' Baseball League. The younger boys will play in the American League and the older boys in National League. The boys will travel to Bear Creek, Shiocton, Marion, Manawa, Weyauwega, Greenville, Cecil and Iola.

Four teams also will be chosen from the eight to 12 age group to participate in the Midget League which plays at 6 p.m. Wednesdays at the Cedar Park Field.

Little League baseball fees are $1.50 per child.

Five-, six- and seven-year-old boys and girls will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Thursday in the old high school gymnasium for recreation activities. Should increased enrollment in this division warrant splitting the group into two sections, each section probably will meet only twice a week.

The fee per child is $1 and payable the first day, June 14.

Girls eight- to 13-years-old will meet at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the old gymnasium for their program. If there is enough interest, another afternoon session will be added. The group may be divided into two sections, eight to 10 years and 11 to 13 if enrollment is large enough.

Second and third graders of the 1970-71 school year from the Bonduel area will be able to take swimming lessons at the Shawano pool. Their lessons will begin June 14. Third graders from the Navarino area will be in an area of study — not just offered lessons during the second session which will begin about July 19.

Byers Designates Oboe Player For Scholarship

MADISON — Greg Schaffer of Lockport, N. Y., a junior in the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Music and a member of the Symphonic Band, is this year's recipient of the Rep. Francis Byers (R-Marion) legislative scholarship.

"Traditionally, members of the State Legislature give their scholarships, which waive tuition for out-of-state students at any state school, to athletes, especially football players," Byers commented when he awarded his scholarship.

"I added a new twist this year by granting my scholarship to an oboe player," he added. "I decided that the University of Wisconsin Symphonic Band deserved just as much promotion as the UW football team."

"The reaction has been tremendous," Byers reported. "Apparently, many people were surprised that this scholarship program could benefit a student in an area of study — not just athletes. It is my personal hope that there will be more of this."

Fremont Church Vacation Bible School to Begin

Company-Owned Planes Used by Mills For Speeches Against Revenue Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., planned to take another free ride aboard a company-owned jet to Oklahoma today as he neared his speaking campaign against President Nixon's revenue-sharing plan.

"I see nothing wrong with that," Mills said.

Mills, a powerful chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and author of all major tax bills since World War II, has accepted free flights aboard company-owned airplanes to two other states in the past nine days.

A lobbyist for the nation's largest retail firm, Sears, Roebuck & Co., arranged one of the jet flights, which took Mills and his wife home to Arkansas after speeches to use as they see fit, Washington to Springfield, Ill. The bill, key measure in the May 26 to talk to the Illinois legislature, then flew him home to Arkansas.

A land development firm in Mills replied that he never accepted speaking fees, but he does expect his hosts to pay his expenses and provide his transportation to Baton Rouge for a speech to the Louisiana Legislature.

A Sears, Roebuck spokesman was arranged through an Oklahoma confirmed his company carried home congressman, Democratic Mills in a twin-engine jet from Rep. Ed Edmondson.

Jungle Expert in Capital Zarco The Great

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Panamanian Indian on his first trip to this country looked at a moon rock brought back by astronauts he'd coached in survival training in his native jungle.

"Is it dangerous?" Antonio Zarco asked, noting the heavy plexiglass case enclosing the rock.

No, his escorts explained. It's not the rock that's dangerous. The case protects the rock from the thousands of tourists who might want to take it home from the Smithsonian Institution's Air and Space Museum.

The 50-year-old Zarco, here as guest of the Air Force, is a senior elder of the Choco Indians who live in the jungle that stretches from the Panama Canal Zone to northwestern Colombia.

Main Adviser

He has been principal adviser to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's jungle survival training center for 10 years and helped train all the astronauts.

As a symbol of their affection, they gave Zarco a "Silver Snoopy" tie tac which he wore with an immaculate white suit and mod blue shirt.

Last week in Huntsville, Ala., astronaut Charles Conrad told him the "Silver Snoopy" is the astronauts' personal award for professional excellence.

"It is given only to those whom we regard as the very best in their respective professions," Conrad told Zarco.

Police Urged to Put Effort on Violent Crime

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A special pornography as "the pur- committee of 28 leading San Francisco citizens has recommended that police bear down on violent crime and ignore "discreet acts of prostitution, pornography, homosexuality and gambling."

Police Chief Alfred Nelder said he was "flabbergasted" by the report Thursday. He said it represents a "defeatist attitude."

The committee said it does not "condone or approve any of these activities. But we have to stop cluttering up our criminal justice system with unenforceable laws."

Cross-Section

"Instead of being concerned in private clubs and other 're- with morality, we should try to turn all our resources toward such as church bingo games es- far more serious crime, includ- ing the safety of citizens on the streets," the report said.

The committee was appointed in 1968 by Mayor Joseph Alioto and the board of supervisors, to whom it reports. It is headed by lawyers Moses Lasky and William H. Orrick Jr., and includes a cross-section of professions and minority groups. The work is funded by grants from the U.S. Justice Department and the Ford Foundation.

The report said the scope of prostitution in San Francisco is "fantastic," and that a large number of so-called "discreet, off-the-street" prostitution should cease to be criminal.

Although describing commercial prostitution as "the epitome of hypocrisy. The commodity they are talking about are human beings," Nelder said, "Pornography, Nelder said, 'must be watched closely from the standpoint of organized crime' and 'does lead to promiscuity and increased rapes.'"

Irving F. Reichert Jr., committee executive director, said: "As a matter of fact, there is a large number of social scientists who believe that pornographic materials actually provide an outlet for some types of people who might otherwise commit violent sex crimes."

Voting Law Changes Left to States

WASHINGTON (AP) — New districting plans that could affect the voting rights of Southern Negroes do not have to be submitted to Washington for approval when they are formulated by federal judges, the Supreme Court has ruled.

The decision Thursday held district court decrees changing election laws are not within reach of the 1965 Federal Voting Rights Act.

At the same time, the high court indicated it favors single-member districts over multi-member at-large legislative districts "as a general matter."

The ruling came on a plea by civil rights lawyers from Jackson, Miss., to slow down the election for the state legislature while they challenged an apportionment plan ordered by a three-judge federal panel. They were backed by the Justice Department.

Beyond Mechanics

The court granted their request, but went dramatically beyond the mechanics of the particular election to declare apportionment decrees by U.S. district courts are beyond the reach of section 5 of the 1965 federal law.

Under past rulings changes in election laws by the legislatures of six Southern states had to be approved either by a special federal court in Washington or by the attorney general.

The new ruling exempts changes imposed by federal judges.

The 1965 Voting Rights Act required Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Virginia and South Carolina to run this gauntlet when they alter election laws in ways that could affect blacks. The law imposes the same requirement in 39 counties in North Carolina and single counties in Arizona and Hawaii.

Apportionment Plan

Civil rights lawyers turned to the high court when the three-judge panel in Jackson issued an apportionment plan May 18 for election to the state legislature that makes Hinds County a multimember district with five state senators and 12 state representatives.

The deadline for filing for election was today, but the unsigned ruling postponed it until June 14 and ordered the court in Jackson, barring "insurmountable difficulties," to come up with a single-member district plan for the county.

Single-member districts generally are favored by black voters. When blacks are included in a larger district, their voting strength may be outweighed by whites.

Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter said the decision "puts us in a category with the other states." He said it has been obvious since Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has singled out the South for closer scrutiny in reapportionment cases.

"I think the district courts probably are more understanding of regional problems," he said.

George P. Taylor, a lawyer for the civil rights group pressing the case from Hinds County, said he is disappointed at the ruling that court-ordered election-law changes do not have to meet Washington approval.

Mamie Given Paper Weight

NEW YORK (AP) — The American-Korean Foundation has given Mamie Eisenhower a turtle-shaped paper weight symbolizing prosperity and friendship.

The topaz and gold ornament was given to the former first lady Thursday to commemorate the founding of an agricultural program named for the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower and which will train 600,000 South Koreans.

Winemaking Course Set at Valley Campus

A course in gourmet wine-making, "The Vintage Art," will be offered this summer by the University Extension, University of Wisconsin (UW).

The course will be taught by James E. Walsh, instructor in bacteriology at the UW West Bend Campus.

The class sessions, on five consecutive Wednesdays beginning June 30, are scheduled for 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Kahler Motel, Appleton. The fee is $10 for an individual or $15 for a dual enrollment.

The course in winemaking will cover manufacture, the knowing and appreciation of fine wines, making them and use in cooking.

Walsh, prior to his university teaching career, worked for the Miller Brewing Co. in Milwaukee. He is a consultant for the Purple Foot People, an organization that sells winemaking equipment.

Registration for the class should be made with Eugene Gibas, continuing education agent for University Extension, at the Fox Valley Campus.

The one play guilty of laying more smoke screens than any other is the finesse. It is easy to execute, requires minimum study and is most tempting.

Opening lead: King of spades.

The bidding shown above is duplicated at most tables. However, before the students start play, Goldman directs all pairs who did not reach the heart game to play at four hearts.

The declarers who yield to the temptations of finessses immediately recognize the familiar heart and club combinations. They win the spade ace and take the obvious heart finesse. This loses to West's king, and West continues with a spade, which declarer ruffs.

One more finesse is tried — a low club is led to dummy's queen and East captures the king. A club return by East wrecks the contract, since the defense must take four tricks — one heart, two clubs and one diamond.

Goldman demonstrates the proper play.

Declarer must resist the temptations of both finessses. After winning the spade ace, declarer should play dummy's queen of diamonds. East wins the ace and leads a heart (best). Declarer refuses the finesse and wins the ace.

Declarer then plays the king and jack of diamonds, discarding two of dummy's clubs. In effect, he refuses any finesse, playing instead for a sure thing.

After declarer cashes his club ace, he can cross-ruff clubs and spades to assure 10 tricks and his contract. His only losers are the heart king, the diamond ace and the long club in his hand.

Goldman advises, "The finesse is a relatively easy play to see. Before committing yourself to taking finessses, look around for alternate plays. The rewards may well be worth the effort."

Miss Wasrud Scholarship Recipient

WAUPACA — Ardyece Wasrud of Iowa was the recipient of a $150 scholarship marking the highlight of the recent annual Homemakers' Holiday of the Waupaca County Extension Homemakers at Cedar Springs Resort, Manawa.

Miss Wasrud, who received the award from its first winner, Mrs. Cathy Boyer Schauder, will attend Stout State University this fall.

During the afternoon's activities Noel McFarlane of Australia, presented an illustrated talk on his homeland in comparison to ways of life in Wisconsin and the United States in general.

In his address, "Communication Is the Beginning of Understanding," McFarlane stated that the topic was the reason for the American Field Service Exchange program. He continued with a vivid presentation of the industrial, agricultural, sociological and educational systems of Australia, a country equal to the size of the continental United States but intriguingly different from it.

Judith Rausch Recipient of Scholarship

Miss Judith Rausch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Rausch, is the 1971 recipient of the Calumet County Extension Homemakers Scholarship. Each year the Extension Homemakers organization awards a $200 scholarship to a Calumet County girl who wishes to further her education in the field of home economics at an accredited school of her choice.

Judy has been an active member of the local Future Homemakers of America and has participated in Future Teachers Association, French Club, Pep Club, National Honor Society and American Field Service. Judy also is working at Calumet Memorial Hospital in her free time.

She expresses her feelings of what home economics is in her essay, "Why I Am Choosing Home Economics as a Career."

"A home economics teacher in senior high school is the challenging goal I have been striving for. In my opinion, home economics is a vital and interesting part of the school program. Most of its classes are informally conducted in a manner similar to seminars and workshops by planning and doing.

"An ambassador for home economics is my goal. My desire stems from my fervent belief that a career in home economics is the most practical, interesting, and vital course a girl could pursue."

Authorization But Not Funding Is Part Of Assembly Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A quiet effort to provide legal authority for the expansion into graduate study fields by the new branches of the University of Wisconsin at Green Bay and near Kenosha has begun with the insertion of such permission into the new state budget bill which is being readied for consideration in the state assembly.

When the legislature provided for the creation of the campuses several years ago, it stipulated that they would limit their offerings to a four year curriculum, by specifying that "third year and fourth year" instruction could be provided to supplement the first and second year programs already offered in several localities in the northeastern and southeastern districts.

Administrators and faculties at both schools, like their professional colleagues elsewhere in higher education, are known to be interested in broadening the scope of their instruction to provide teaching and research facilities for graduate students as well.

As the omnibus appropriation bill now stands, it proposes no state university system, and his Green Bay and near Kenosha funding for graduate school support is anxiously wanted by the governor. Under the current authorization is retained in stances, the state administration is unlikely to resist his proposal for graduate school authorization in the future at which funding proposals may be pushed at a future time. # James Coleman Is Campaign Chairman For Cerebral Palsy

GREEN BAY — James Coleman, who has been involved in United Cerebral Palsy activities and fund raising campaigns for the past 11 years, has been named campaign chairman of the organization's northeastern Wisconsin division.

Coleman, a member of the board of United Cerebral Palsy for five years, was elected vice president of the local group last fall. He also served as legislative committee chairman.

Man Unhurt as Landing Gear on Plane Stays Up

An Appleton attorney, Robert M. Sigman, 512 E. Greenfield St., escaped injury Thursday night when the landing gear on the light aircraft he was piloting failed to operate before he landed at the Outagamie County Airport.

Sigman said this morning that the single-engine craft sustained "very little visible damage." Sigman said he was approaching to land about 8:40 p.m. when a warning horn on the aircraft failed to indicate that the wheels had not descended. "There was no structural damage to the aircraft, but it's scraped," he said.

Old-Time Music Filled the Ballroom

Wednesday evening at the Cinderella Ballroom, the Appleton Golden Age Club played host to neighboring golden age clubs at its annual dance. The evening, however, had an unusual twist. Due to a mix-up in plans, the band never arrived! Members and guests waited patiently, though, and were rewarded when Ray Brock was able to locate four musicians who were willing to dash to the ballroom and turn what seemed to be a disaster into a happy occasion.

The event has become a yearly one. Charlie Maloney donates the hall making it possible for Appleton's senior citizens to have their area-wide dance.

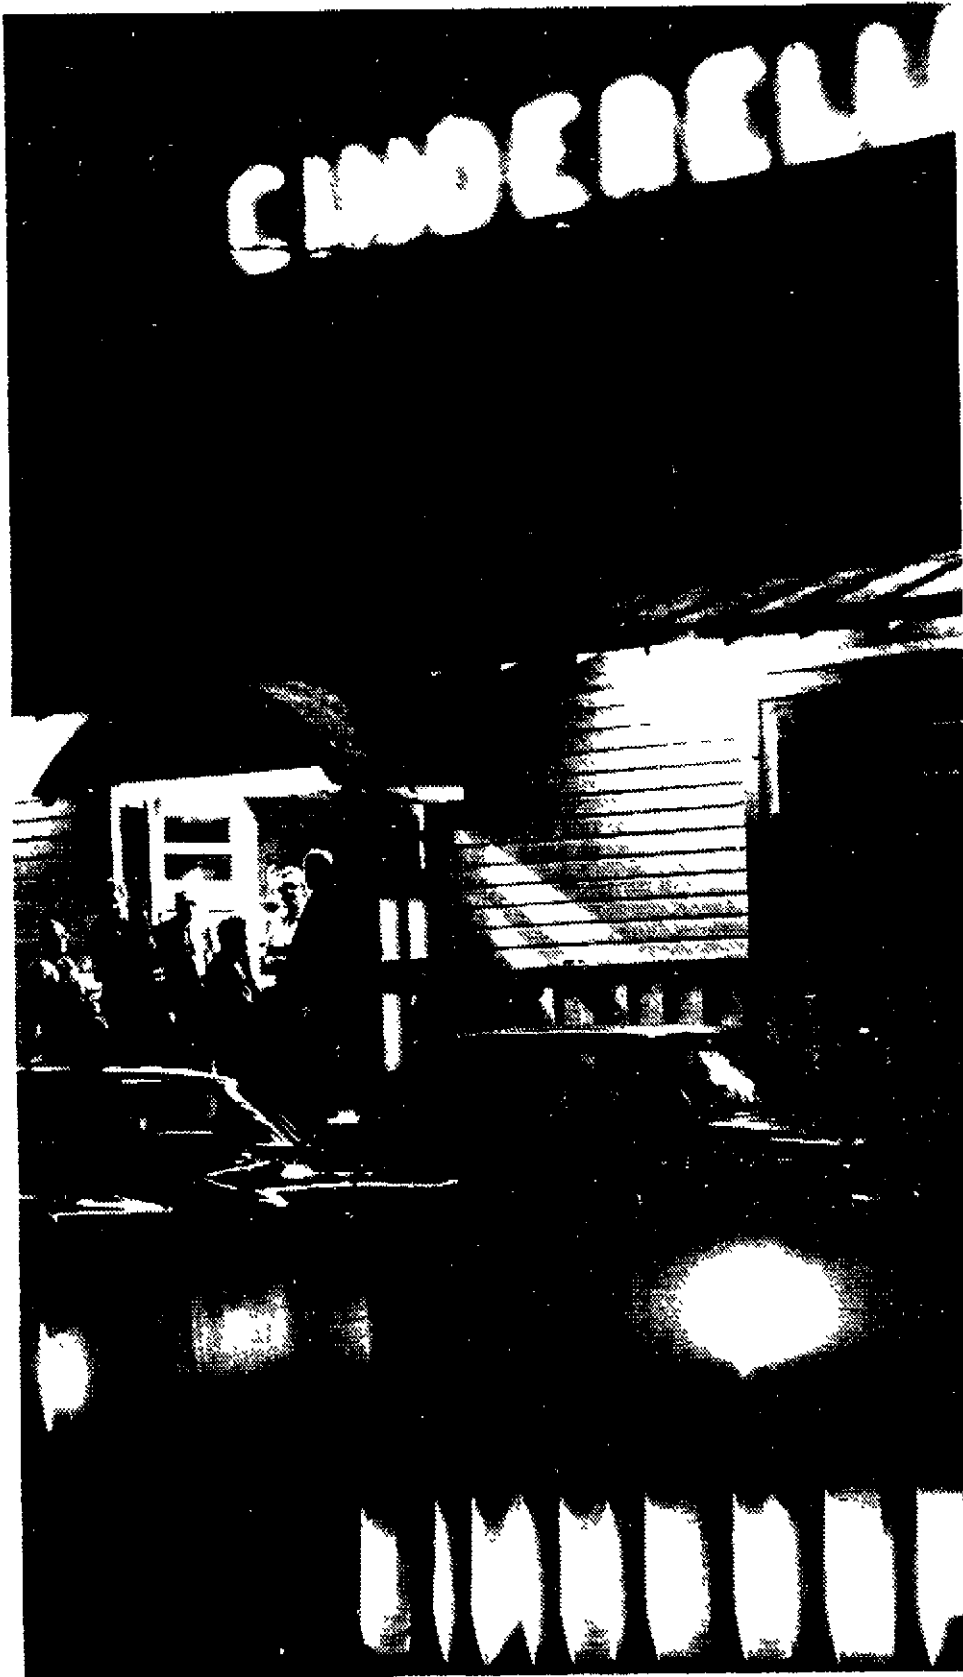

This year there were more than 500 people in attendance who had come from as far away as Eau Claire and from as close as Kaukauna.

Even Though the band hadn't begun to play Mrs. Rose Krzykowi, Mrs. Carrie O'Shasky, Mrs. Mary Mras and Mrs. Edith Kester, all of Wisconsin Rapids, shared a light moment with Mrs. Floyd Lucke and Mrs. Paul Hoffman. At left, Mrs. Louise Sebo and Mrs. Margaret McHaulin stop to talk with two guests from Wisconsin Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard Luebeck.

Mrs. Kurt Koletzke leans against the door frame as she waits patiently for the band to arrive. At left, Fred Berg of Kaukauna sits down to the piano to make old time music for the golden agers attending the annual party.

It Was Warm inside the ballroom so some of the people who had gathered for the annual golden age dance, stepped outside into the fresh air and watched as others arrived. At left, Mrs. Bertha Trunk and William Meyers, Red Granite, step to one of the old familiar tunes.

Witch Hazel Can Correct Problem Skin

Here are answers to some beauty questions you may always have wanted to know, but were too shy to ask. They cover such matters as blackheads, rashes and lines.

Take blackheads for example. Don't neglect them, merely camouflaging them with makeup. Start treatment as soon as they appear. First, loosen them by softening the skin with warm water and soap. A steam tent made by holding a towel over the head and allowing steam from the faucet to reach the face, is helpful in stubborn cases.

Remove the blackheads with a sterilized comedo extractor or by manipulating with cloth. Do not use fingernails. After removal, soothe the skin pore-deep by holding a witch hazel-soaked pad to the area.

Simple blemishes, the so-called blossoms that show up for no apparent reason and always at the wrong time, also respond to witch hazel pads. After reducing pimples with a sterilized needle, hold a witch hazel pad to the affected area.

Smoothing frown lines and chasing under-eye dark circles also are jobs for a witch hazel pad. Soak a strip long enough and wide enough to cover the eyes and lower forehead. Lie down, relax and let the lotion do its soothing thing.

Rashes caused by glasses frames or earrings may also be treated with pads. Just hold them lightly against the rash.

To reduce bumps or lighten bruise marks apply a chilled pad.

It's Long, Long Time From Engagement to Wedding

By PEACE STERLING

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a long, long time from the night you decide to get married to the day the rings are slipped on, and being just halfway there, I'm feeling like something of a cross between a blushing bride and a hard-nosed personnel manager.

It all began when he proposed, and the only thing we had to toast each other with was oysters on the half shell. By the time our luscious dinner of lobster and wine finally arrived, we were too excited to eat a bite.

Then we had to tell my parents. I thought it would be the revelation of the ages, and all my mother said was, "I knew it." When my newly announced husband-to-be called his mother, all I heard was, "Mom, I'm getting married." And the next thing I heard him say was, "No—not tomorrow."

Didn't Know

We came up with a date for the big event eight months in the future. I figured there would be plenty of time for the "minor" preparations, since we only wanted a small wedding. Little did I know. I had no sooner gotten back to work than the "mailed approach" began—with great packets arriving every day from my parents—full of information on china, crystal, decorating your first home and most important—recipes for beginners.

However, the folks soon gave up trying to communicate with me by mail, and the "phone approach" began. Initially this involved a call once a week—to discuss such weighty subjects as should the men wear strollers or cutaways, and what color towels did I like.

But since I ended up talking more to my mother, my father soon began calling me at work on Monday mornings for equal time. Then, in the middle of the week my grandparents would call. All this has resulted in some crossed signals. Like at one time it looked like we were getting married three times the same day, since everybody had picked out a different hour for the knot-tying.

I did become the recipient of a beautiful diamond ring. Only trouble was it was about three sizes too big and I had to wear it with tape around it for three days. I was too paranoid to go off and leave it in a store, so I had to con a jeweler into cutting it down for me on the spot.

Not long ago we went back home for an engagement party—replete with more confusion. It had never occurred to us that tux would be in order for the male guest of honor for that event. What I had forgotten was that my father had just acquired a gold dinner jacket and was dying to show it off. Luckily my future brother-in-law was driving up and could bring the proper apparel. However, he only managed to arrive 15 minutes before the guests were due, and my young fiancée suddenly acquired a case of premature high blood pressure.

It's been going on so long now that I am getting used to the constant hassle. However my bridegroom is just now starting to become traumatized. He'll be all right though—as soon as he stops having his recurring nightmare about losing his shoes and having to wear combat boots to the wedding.
